

Pollution Victory:

MAYOR CURRAN

By SHANE CROSBY

ROSENDALE
"It's a victory over pollution," said village Mayor William P. Curran yesterday as he detailed plans to have Rosendale cleaned of illegal sewage discharges by next summer.
In a two-part move, called "an alternative" to the $1-million sewer system up for trustee consideration this evening that is given little hope of passage, Curran said a combined pollution attack by federal, state and village officials will end the problem within six months.
The first part is already in the planning stage and will end pollution of the Rondout Creek by homes along Main Street that have been involved in the village-army dispute over direct waste dumping.

Curran said, and army through either a Department of the Army directive from Washington or direct intervention of President Nixon, has reversed its stand on a system of pipes or "headers" that would have cut through the Main Street dike to dump sewerage into the creek.
Curran said, and army officials in New York City confirmed, that the Corps of Engineers is working with state conservation officials to install large septic tanks that can handle all the household waste of the Main Street residences.

Special
The change of plans by the Army came after district and regional headquarters of the Corps of Engineers had rejected demands by Curran that the header system be abandoned.
The Corps contended that it was required by law to replace the residents' system of direct dumping and could not spend money on any other plan of the mayor's.

Curran said Tuesday that the intervention of President Nixon in the form of "an executive order" after receiving a telegram from the mayor brought about the change.
Corps officials in Manhattan, the local district over Rosendale, said that the change came in the form of Department of the Army Directive ordered by Nixon—an order with the same power, but without Nixon's signature that would be on an executive order.
Mayor Curran's second step for ending pollution in the Rosendale area is a local followup on that order. Curran said he will seek passage of a local law that will prohibit discharge of raw waste into any body of water in the village as well as discharge above ground on dry land.

He said his local law would be designed for the other side of the creek, James Street, as well as John Street and other areas where—pointing to one case—"they got it (sewage) running out onto the village streets."
Next summer, or about six months, was given by the mayor as the time of full implementation of both parts.

He disclosed his two-part plan Tuesday while discussing the $1-million sewerage system that was aired for the first time Friday evening.
Curran admitted he has little hope that the trustees will pass the sewer line plan.
Reflecting on the Friday hearing, Curran said he does not feel the public would support the system, due to its costs.
The local law planned "will have teeth in it," he said. Curran added that he will seek the right to enter private property to examine septic systems and alleged illegal discharges.

Council Approves

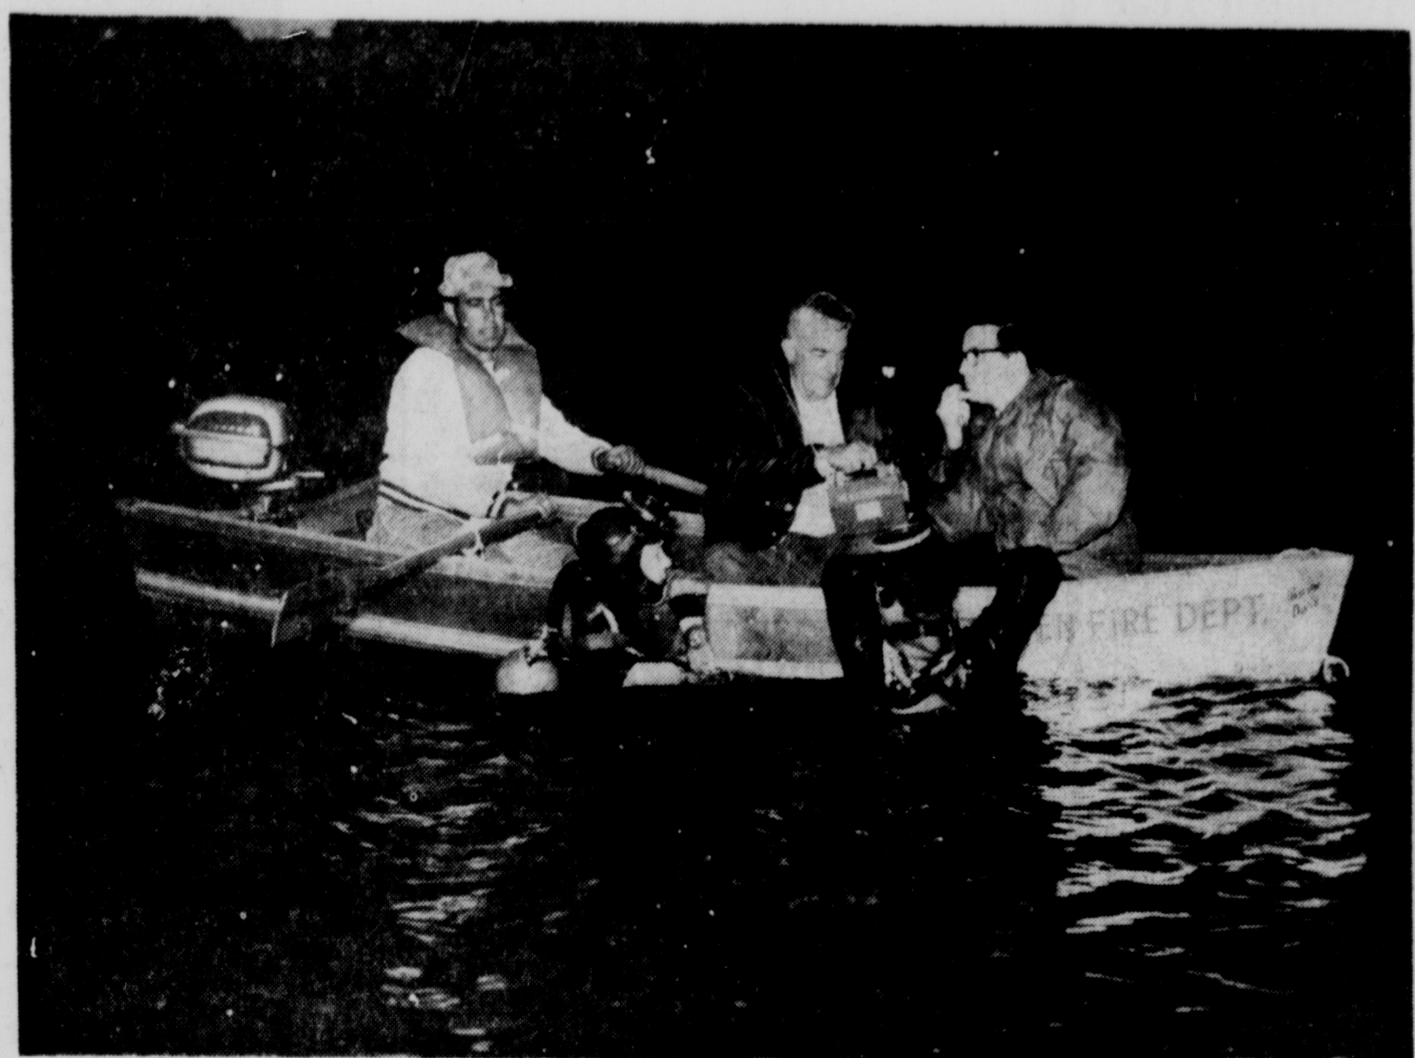

Zoning Change Allows High Rise

KINGSTON
Major zoning legislation always seems to cause controversy in the Common Council and Tuesday night was no exception as the aldermen approved a zoning change in Lawton Park to permit the construction of high rise apartments.
The battle over this particular zoning proposition got off to a quick start shortly after City Clerk Thomas R. Lyle read the resolution from the Laws and Rules Committee recommending the zoning change from its present Triple-R to R-6. Alderman John Machione (R-Second Ward) immediately asked to read the document and after doing so, said, "I'm not hard of hearing. I didn't hear him read that this zoning was for garden type apartments. I want him to read that resolution verbatim the way it's supposed to be read. This stuff has been going on around here for three years."

Lyle then read the resolution again, including the part about the garden type apartments.

Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo said that Lyle's omission was an oversight which had been corrected by his rereading the resolution.
Machione then asked two men identified only as Mr. Zang and Mr. Parnett to give definitions of a garden type apartment. The two spectators said that a garden type apartment dwelling was a building of three stories or less and that anything over three stories would be considered a high rise apartment.
Machione then said, "You don't need an R-6 for garden type apartments, so why zone this property R-6?"

After the Council meeting, Donald E. Quick, chairman of the Laws and Rules Committee, said that high rise apartments were proposed for the project and not garden-type apartments. He said that the reference to garden-type apartments in the resolution meant that the apartments to be built would have gardens around them.
Machione, during the debate on the issue, raised the question of the financial stability of the proposed developers, Halpern and Davidson of Somerville, N.J. He said he had called three banks in Kingston who said they hadn't heard of the developing company.
Quick said that the developers had merely inquired at a number of banks to ask if Kingston needed more apartments. He said that the developer would go to a mortgage broker for financing since banks in Kingston did not have the funds to finance the three to five million dollar proposed project.

Tyrrell Questions

City Action Defended by Klein

By HUGH REYNOLDS
KINGSTON
The name of Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan's son, R. Abel, was brought into the so-called Wainscott controversy when Republican Mayoral hopeful James J. Tyrrell brought his questions on the transaction to the Common Council at Tuesday night's meeting.

Tyrrell said a local broadcaster had identified the man who had picked up the three checks for Wainscott Sand Corporation on July 15 in the city clerk's office as Raymond Abel Garraghan, son of the mayor.

Also, Corporation Counsel Aaron E. Klein became the first city official to publicly respond to Tyrrell's charges of illegal financial dealings by the Garraghan Administration when he told The Freeman, "I'll match the honesty of this administration and Mayor Raymond Garraghan against Tyrrell any time."

Tyrrell, in addressing the Common Council, once again raised the questions of illegal financial transactions by the city in regards to the building of a baseball field in the Urban Renewal area on Ann Street.

Tyrrell, in reviewing the transaction, also said, "Gentlemen (in addressing the aldermen) because the city clerk (Thomas R. Lyle) has admitted in the presence of a witness that he was ordered to pay these bills by the mayor, I would like to know why the mayor authorized the payment of such bills in three separate amounts for one particular contract at an individual job site in Ann and Mill Streets. I would like to know why the contract which was for over a thousand dollars was not put out to competitive bid."

Klein said, "Tyrrell's whole premise starts off on the wrong footing."

Klein contended that the city "never purchased any property." "The property was purchased by the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency. The city merely laid out the money pending a refund from the urban renewal agency," he said.

Klein said the reason for speed in the matter was to prepare a baseball diamond for the disadvantaged children of the Downtown area. "I would assume that the municipality would be forgiven for making it possible for the children to have a playground at the expense of laying out money for a short period of time," he said.

Klein, in stating that the job was an urban renewal undertaking and not a city project, said that in that case it would have been unnecessary for the city to advertise for bids and that it would have been "equally unnecessary for the Council to approve contracts that were really the contracts of the Urban Renewal Agency."

Klein was also asked to clarify statements that the money had been paid to the Wainscott company by mistake, as he has been quoted as saying to John Machione (R-Second Ward) "My response to Machione at all times was that money was paid by the city for the urban renewal agency and it was refunded to the city in full," Klein said.

Alderman Fred Harder (D-Ninth Ward) also took exception to Tyrrell's statements that he had not answered the GOP candidate's questions on the Wainscott issue. Harder, a member of the Auditing Committee of the Council, said that he had sent his answer to Tyrrell by registered mail on Oct. 3. The letter had been delivered to Tyrrell's home on 52 First Avenue. Harder said, but postal authorities said he was not at home at the time. A notice to pick up the letter was left at Tyrrell's house, Harder said. As of yesterday, Harder said, Tyrrell had not gone to the post office to claim the letter.

Extensive damage to the interior and furnishings of the Old Hurley School and evidence that attempts had been made to start fires in the building, were reported to the sheriff's office this morning.

Sheriff William B. Martin ordered an immediate investigation and said every effort will be made to apprehend the vandals.

According to reports, ink was splashed on walls and floors, desks and chairs were upset, attempts were made to burn teachers' records and charred paper found in waste baskets indicated that the vandals may have attempted to burn the school.

Tyrrell, in reviewing the transaction, also said, "Gentlemen (in addressing the aldermen) because the city clerk (Thomas R. Lyle) has admitted in the presence of a witness that he was ordered to pay these bills by the mayor, I would like to know why the mayor authorized the payment of such bills in three separate amounts for one particular contract at an individual job site in Ann and Mill Streets. GOV. CLINTON HOTEL RESOLD

By LYNN MULVANEY

ELLENVILLE
The big and the little alike filed quietly into Ellenville today for the funeral of Joseph Y. Resnick, the flamboyant former congressman and millionaire businessman who championed the underdog.

All was quiet at the giant Channel Master Corp., the $45 million industry Resnick and his two brothers, Louis and Harry, founded for a mere $7,000. The plant was closed for the day.

Ellenville village and Wawarsing town offices were closed during the funeral services and burial. Flags were at half staff throughout the area.

Resnick died Monday of a heart attack in Las Vegas.

His mourners were many—his wife, his four children, his brothers and sisters—the former President of the United States, Lyndon B. Johnson and many other public figures, friends and foes alike, eulogized Resnick. Their comments reflected the fire and controversy Resnick created in his tenure as a Democratic Congressman from the 28th District from 1964-68. "Joe Resnick was not afraid to take on the establishment," said Rep. William F. Ryan, D-N. Y. "A real fighter," were the words of both Rep. Bertram L. Podell and State Democratic Chairman John Burns.

A spokesman for Johnson said a personal message was sent Resnick's widow, Ruth, and four children, and that the former President would have no statement.

Messages of condolence flowed in and out of the county yesterday with Western Union in Kingston handling as many as 600 at one time.

Everywhere in the Hudson Valley the reaction was the same. No one could quite believe what had happened. As Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan put it, "Resnick's name was a household word in the 28th District."

Dr. Gerald P. Gorman, former Ulster County Democratic chairman and perhaps Resnick's closest political associate in the 28th District mourned the loss not only to the district but to the Democratic Party itself. The funeral was at 2 p.m. from the Slutsky Jewish Community Center in Ellenville, Resnick's home town, with burial at the Hebrew Aid Cemetery in Wawarsing.

First in Decades

With a help from Johnson's landslide victory in 1964, Resnick became the first Democrat in decades to be elected from his lower Hudson Valley district. Resnick supported Johnson's war policy and other programs and was re-elected for a second term, aided by a campaign visit to his district by the President.

As a congressman, he supported many liberal causes, condemning discrimination against Negroes in Alabama and Jewish prejudice in Russia. He challenged the Farm Bureau's right to tax-exempt status, claiming that it was out to make money not to help the farmer, and he got involved in the much-publicized and controversial Liuni case in New York State.

Resnick supported the successful efforts by dark-skinned who were fighting to gain permanent custody of blue-eyed blonde four-year-old Beth Liuni, the child they had raised since she was five days old.

But Resnick lost his most important political battle when he continued to support the man he owed so much to—Johnson.

In a three-way primary race last year for the Democratic nomination to the U.S. Senate Resnick—once considered the front-runner—was a poor third.

Political observers said growing sentiment against the Vietnam war plus a backlash after the assassination of Robert F. Kennedy, who Resnick had taken publicly to task for criticizing Johnson, contributed to the defeat.

The congressman retired from politics after that and, except for an endorsement several weeks ago of Mayor John V. Lindsay, another underdog, devoted himself mainly to business. It was while on a business trip that Resnick died.

Governor Clinton Hotel Sale New Management Takes Over Oct. 15

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON
The management of the Governor Clinton Hotel will change on Oct. 15 when ABEK Associates, Inc., a Kingston real estate investment firm takes over the city's largest hotel at 1 Albany Avenue.

N. Jansen Fowler, president of the Board of Directors of the Kingston Community Hotel Corporation, present owners, and R. Abel Garraghan, president of ABEK Associates, in a joint statement today announced that ABEK would assume management of the hotel next Wednesday.

Fowler also noted that at a recent meeting of the Board of Directors of KCHC, Garraghan was elected to a position on the Board to fill a vacancy left by the resignation of N. LeVan Haver. Garraghan will represent the interests of ABEK and William Gaffken.

ABEK and Gaffken recently acquired 1,400 of the approximately 4,000 shares, or about 40 per cent of the outstanding shares of Kingston Community Hotel Corporation. The hotel will continue under management of Wayfarer Inns until Oct. 15.

After that date, Edward Krein, an associate of ABEK Associates, Inc., will be responsible for management of food services at the hotel. Krein is vice president of Schar Brand Catering Corporation, which operates the Dutch Rathskeller in Kingston.

Garraghan said there will be no major changes made in the operation of the hotel at this time, and that dining and banquet facilities will continue as in the past.
"I am confident that as our plans become a reality and our improvements are instituted, the Governor Clinton Hotel will become one of the finest dining and banquet facilities in the Hudson Valley." He added, "Krein and I will be announcing our plans within the next few weeks."

Garraghan is a native of Kingston and the son of Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan and Ruth Abernathy Garraghan. He attended Kingston Schools and Manhattan College and received a BS degree with a major in finance and accounting from Syracuse University.

Garraghan is principal in Kingston Securities, a local investment house, and is founder of the Kingston Arnold Palmer Golf facility. He is a member of the Ulster County Planning Board, representing the City of Kingston and is currently one of the eight Democratic candidates for the County Legislature from Kingston.

"I can think of no finer way to prove my faith in the future of Kingston than by an investment of this nature," Garraghan commented. "I see a tremendous growth for Kingston and Ulster County and I want to be a part of it and hope to be even more involved."

Garraghan said he sees the development of the Governor Clinton Hotel "as playing a major role in bringing this anticipated growth closer to being," and he added, "I believe that only local investment, with the interests of the city and county in mind, can bring this growth and development which will benefit our entire community. The profits derived from local investment will go back into the community to bring about this growth."

It was also noted by Garraghan that Frank Gross will continue as manager of the hotel until December.

Bancks in Memphis, Blume in Viet; Col. Relyea Attends War College

Three local men are currently serving their country in widely scattered sections of the world. Dennis Bancks, son of Mrs. Lucille Bancks of Rifton, is undergoing a 30-week training course in aviation electronics at the Naval Training Station in Memphis, Tenn.

Bancks graduated from Kingston High School and also from Ulster County Community College, the latter with an associate degree in electronic technology in 1968.

Shortly after graduation from UCCC Bancks enlisted in the Navy for basic training at Great Lakes, Ill. He was home for a two weeks leave before reporting to Memphis.

Marine Lance Corporal Robert Blume, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Blume of 276 Washington Avenue, Kingston, is now serving with the Third Marine Battalion in Vietnam. Prior to his enlistment he attended Kingston High School.

Lt. Col. George R. Relyea, son of Mrs. Loretta F. Relyea, 12 Fair Street, Highland, is one of 224 senior officers and civilians currently attending the U.S. Army War College at Carlisle Barracks, Pa.

The 10-month course, which will end in June 1970, is designed to increase the student's analytical ability and knowledge and to provide the United States with prepared military leaders to help solve the future complex problems of peace and war.

The 40-year-old colonel, who was last stationed at Andrews Air Force Base, Md., received his B.S. degree from the U.S. Military Academy, West Point, in 1952. He holds five awards of the Army Commendation Medal.

Lt. Col. Relyea received his M.S.C.F. degree from the University of Illinois in 1958. His wife, Winifred, is with him at the college.

Coast Guard Cadets Enter Freshman Year

Two local Coast Guard cadets, Thomas Fitzgerald of 94 Clifton Avenue, Kingston, and Dana Helsey of 37 Broadway, Tivoli, have completed their first stage of training at the academy in New London, Conn., summer training, and have entered their freshman year.

Fitzgerald is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald P. Fitzgerald. Helsey is the son of Mrs. William S. Bain.

Since arriving at the academy in June they have been undergoing a vigorous program of military instruction. Training has included physical conditioning, military drill, classroom study and a two-week cruise on the Academy's square-rigged training barge the Eagle.

As a fourth classman at the Academy they will pursue a rigid course of instruction. They will also be assigned numerous duties aimed at developing his qualities of leadership which are essential to an officer in the Coast Guard.

They are scheduled to graduate in 1973 with a bachelor of science degree.

156th Advisor Back From War

JOHN THOMAS

First Sergeant John A. Thomas, U. S. Army enlisted advisor, has returned from Vietnam where he served as first sergeant and as operations sergeant with the 2nd Battalion, 94th Artillery.

ISG Thomas had been assigned as enlisted advisor to the local Army National Guard at the time of his call to duty in Vietnam in July 1968.

"His return to Kingston for a second time to serve the 156th Artillery is a most happy occasion. We welcome First Sergeant Thomas and his family. His wide experience of over 20 years active duty service both in combat operations and in training will be very beneficial to us in our training mission," commented Lt. Col. Frank B. Aceto, battalion commander.

ISG Thomas entered service in September 1950 at Ft. Knox, Ky., and served in combat with the 3rd Armored Division, 15th Infantry Regiment, in Korea. He was awarded the Combat Infantryman's Badge, Korean Service Medal with four battle stars, Presidential Unit Citation, Korean Victory Medal and Good Conduct Medal with four clasps.

In addition, Thomas was awarded the National Defense Service Medal, Japanese Occupation Medal and while serving in Vietnam was awarded the Bronze Star with "V" for heroism, the Army Commendation Medal, Vietnam Service Medal with three battle stars and the Vietnam Victory Medal.

Thomas has also served on tours of duty in Germany and in Korea since that conflict ended. He has expressed a keen desire to make Kingston his permanent home after his retirement from service.

Presently the Thomas' reside at 377 East Chester Street with their three children.

Ground Rites Thursday In the Downtown UR Area

KINGSTON
James G. Connors, executive director of the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency, announced this morning that ground-breaking ceremonies, marking the start of constructing seven single family houses on the first land to be conveyed to a private developer in the Downtown Urban Renewal Area, have been tentatively set for Thursday morning at 9 o'clock.

Gerald Marqusee (mar-key-see), president of Perennial Homes, Inc., noted that the houses he will build are of high durability coupled with low maintenance costs that this project has been a tremendous challenge for the agency and the builder.

Marqusee said that the houses, which will be built on a 42,000-square-foot parcel fronted by Newkirk, Murray and Maple Streets, should be ready for occupancy sometime in January.

William Paulus, assistant vice-president at the First Federal Savings and Loan Association said that the bank will now accept applications from lower income families so that necessary financing can be arranged by the January occupancy date.

New street paving, sidewalks and curbs have been constructed adjacent to this site and the sturdy Northern Michigan White Cedar homes will consist of two and four bedroom structures.

Marqusee stressed that the immense amount of time, work and cooperation by the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency, city officials, Perennial Homes Inc. and the First Federal Savings and Loan Association have resulted in another forward step by the Urban Renewal Program for the People of Kingston.

Show Cause in Majestic Case

By LYNN MULVANEY
KINGSTON
Supreme Court Justice George S. Cobb signed a show cause order Tuesday in Kingston in the matter of Gardiner Supervisor George Majestic's defiance of a Supreme Court order regarding his dual candidacies for town office.

Attorney John Egan, who secured the show cause order said it is returnable Friday. Egan, who represents three Gardiner taxpayers who have filed objections to Majestic's nomination, said today that he is requesting that there be punishment for contempt. He named Majestic, Election Commissioner Joseph I. Epstein and six persons serving on two Gardiner committees on vacancies who named Majestic.

Epstein is being served because he agreed Monday to accept Majestic as a candidate for supervisor on both the Democratic Party ticket and the Anti-Sales Tax ticket, a move which Egan said is in direct defiance of a Supreme Court order handed down by Justice Edward S. Conway at Albany last week. Conway ruled that Majestic, who at that time was seeking both a town and county post-(county legislator) could not serve the two positions at one time, therefore, he could not seek election to the two posts.

The six members of the committees on vacancies are being served because they substituted Majestic's name as a candidate for both supervisor and county legislator, a move which they were told by Justice Conway they could not make. The six included Democrats Della Watt, John Bonagura and Henry Ganzer. Also, Anti-Sales Tax Party members, John T. Casey, Frank Tantillo and Thomas Travis.

Majestic, who originally sought both the town and county positions is presently a candidate for reelection as supervisor only. The change came Monday when Epstein a Democrat, accepted his candidacy for supervisor but rejected his candidacy for county legislator. Republican Election Commissioner Seymour Werbalowsky rejected all of Majestic's petitions on the basis of the Supreme Court edict.

Trammell Waives, to Jury

KINGSTON of a 52-year-old man during a preliminary examination and accused of the fatal shooting quarrel in August, Alonzer Trammell, 50, formerly of 303 Foxhall Avenue, today waived preliminary hearing before City Judge Hubert A. Richter.

The case was referred to the grand jury and the defendant was remanded to the county jail in lieu of $20,000 bail.

Trammell, facing a charge of murder, is accused by authorities with causing the death of Angel Rivera, who had no permanent address.

The accused man had undergone extensive psychiatric examinations requested by his counsel, James R. Myers, who had been assigned to represent him by the Court. The hearing had been adjourned several times pending the psychiatric report.

Although the contents of the report were not made known, it was said by a court official that the report had been filed. Ass't. Dist. Atty. Ellen G. Donovan appeared for the office of District Atty. Joseph P. Torracca at today's proceedings before Judge Richter.

Trammell was in court this morning with counsel and agreed to waiving his right for a preliminary examination and have the case investigated by the grand jury.

According to previous police investigation directed by Det. Lt. Charles McCullough and Police Chief Francis Fagan, Trammell and Rivera had been friends for some time. The two men appeared in City Court on the morning of Aug. 28, when Rivera faced a charge of public intoxication.

On Rivera's plea of guilty to the charge, Special City Judge George A. Beck meted out a suspended sentence after Trammell informed the Court that he would take Rivera to Newburgh where a job was available for Rivera.

Later in the day Trammell allegedly shot Rivera during a quarrel off Field Court. Rivera was taken to Benedictine Hospital in grave condition. Search was launched by police for Trammell, who had fled. He was apprehended by Officers Howard Bernard and William Mulford as he drove his car along Albany Avenue. Rivera died on Sept. 5.

Rep. Fish Reports On Food Conference

POUGHKEEPSIE — How is the school lunch program working out? How well are our servicemen eating? How can consumers make the proper nutritional choice in selecting food from the grocery shelf?

According to Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr., these are the questions being handled by the White House Conference on Food, Nutrition and Health called by the President to be held in Washington Dec. 2, 3 and 4.

Fish explained that the conference will bring together more than 2,500 educators, scientists, medical health professionals as well as representatives of agriculture and the food industry.

They will make dietary and nutritional recommendations based upon work being done by 26 panels which are presently studying the entire range of food and nutritional problems.

Fish said that 20 years ago Americans spent $12 billion on hospital and doctor bills and prescriptions. Today this health tab has risen to $68 billion, yet there has been no increase in the life expectancy of adult males. At the same time cholesterol in Americans is roughly twice the historic average. It is becoming increasingly apparent that the nutritional dilemma in America is two-fold. Millions of people simply don't have enough money to purchase adequate food, while millions more with adequate funds are ignorant of the nutritional values in the food they buy.

"In part, this ignorance of whether 'Is it good for me?' is the fault of modern food processing and packaging. There is actually better labeling on dog food than on food for human consumption — yet food decisions by even nutritional experts depends upon adequate labeling to allow some sort of consumer decision.

"Within the overall problem of proper nutrition for the average person, there is also the problem that specific groups need different diets at different times of their lives. Pregnant women, the aging, and children are three groups which readily come to mind.

"In this age of synthetics, new foods are beginning to come under strong scrutiny. It has been found that certain imitations which simulate traditional foods often lack nutritional value.

"The problem of delivering food in adequate supply and a proper nutritional value to the American people must be solved. It is the purpose of the President's December conference to closely examine the problems and make recommendations."

Demos and UR—Tyrrell Not Sure

KINGSTON — "Any hope that urban renewal will be a matter of top priority under another Democratic administration is hard to believe," James J. Tyrrell, Republican candidate for the office of mayor, said today.

"The past four years of Democratic experience in the field of urban renewal has been a poor experience," Tyrrell said, "and election year headlines will not convince our residents otherwise."

The Republican candidate said "the people of the city should look at the record."

"The record of the Democratic Administration we have had, called for a Czar to run local urban renewal. Under the same administration of which my Democratic opponent was party to, we have had two and a half urban renewal agencies in three years; three urban renewal directors, and one of those served as an acting director for a least a year," Tyrrell said.

Tyrrell cited some statements "lacking responsibility," made in April 1967, by Francis Koenig and Robert Gallo, regarding urban renewal.

"Koenig called for the abolition of the UR Agency in its present form June 7, 1967 and to date has done nothing to change the situation. His running mate, T. Robert Gallo, said the UR Agency should 're-sign and leave town.'"

"This is not responsible government," Tyrrell said, "and certainly not a way to treat residents of our city who give of their time, free of charge, for the betterment of our community."

The Republican candidate stressed that what is needed "for a responsible and effective urban renewal program, is cooperation among the members of the Common Council, the UR Agency, the mayor's office and the residents of the city."

"The record of my opponent," Tyrrell said, "has been one of lack of cooperation with local officials with regard to urban renewal. Mr. Koenig demonstrated this when he ignored the local UR Agency and traveled to New York City to meet with officials of the Department of Housing and Urban Development."

"The record speaks for itself. We had families deprived of decent housing, a total lack of cooperation, a total lack of development and an 18-month delay, all under a Democratic Administration in which my Democratic opponent played a major role," Tyrrell concluded.

Yonkers authorities said that Patrick Wallace, 45, the superintendent of an apartment building, got into a scuffle with the two assailants Tuesday after noon at the building and was fatally stabbed in the neck.

A police bulletin, issued in New York and New Jersey, resulted in the arrest of Michael Almond and Joseph Palmer.

Fort Lee police said they would be held for Yonkers police. Yonkers police said other residents in the apartment building had seen the men knocking on two assailants Tuesday after doors, attempting to sell magazines.

Autumn's Pageant

The spectacular pageant of autumn color in the Catskills and surrounding countryside is underway. Mother Nature has set the stage for her most colorful and elaborate production—the annual changing of summer garb for the reds and scarlets, wines and purples, brown and golds.

This coming weekend will be a good time to view this beautiful picture on the hillsides. Open to the public, this free autumnal spectacular in living color, on a giant screen can be enjoyed at ringside with but a few miles of travel.

One of the exceptionally fine places in this area to see this autumnal colorama is the Shawangunk Mountain Circle Tour, which begins at New Paltz over Route 299. From the Minnewaska Trail on this tour, the view stretches across the Hudson River Valley to the distant Berkshires. Each day the landscape changes, offering new vistas. Other routes are the Rip Van Winkle and Mohawk Trails which follow Route 23 from Catskill to Oneonta and the Onteora Trail over Route 28 along the Ashokan Reservoir.

With things as they are today, the beauty and serenity of the fall foliage should be more than merely soul-feeding. They could be emotionally therapeutic—comforting reassurance that even though man may entrap himself in confusion, turmoil and discord, a greater power remains undisturbed and unaffected by mortal frailties.

Don't miss this greatest show on earth. It is well worth the trip to see one of the world's scenic beauty areas.

Drug Abuse and Suicide

In one metropolitan city and county, 35 to 50 per cent of people who commit suicide are under the influence of tranquilizers, barbiturates, alcohol or some other mood-changing drugs. Dr. Cyril Wecht, coroner's chief pathologist in Allegheny County, Pa., of which Pittsburgh is the county seat, did not, however, attempt to show that the drugs are what cause people to commit suicide.

It may be that the kind of person who takes drugs has problems that predispose him to suicide anyway, the pathologist suggested. He attributed youthful drug abuse to tensions, which are affecting adults as much as young people. Increasing sale of cigarettes, he said, are manifestations of the same thing.

Mood changing drugs have their uses in mental therapy. But when they are abused, the effects become serious. To couple the effects of such drugs with those of alcohol and cigarettes may surprise most people, but pathologists, who perform post-mortems, know what these stimulants can do. The wary take things in moderation, and avoid the pitfalls.

National Registration

With 190 million Americans already fingerprinted, only a small fraction would have to be so marked to create a universal identification system that could be the basis for nationwide registration, Miss Frances G. Knight, director of the U.S. Passport Office points out. Those already fingerprinted include all government employees, military personnel, defense plant employees, as well as criminals.

National registration is used in other advanced nations to solve national problems. "It is not an invasion of privacy—it is a personal safeguard," Miss Knight declared. It would safeguard a citizen's security, and his bank, tax and insurance benefits. And it would stop tax evasion, Social Security frauds and much national crime.

On the other hand, in case of a Communist or other dictatorship takeover, it would be a way of restricting the freedom of all citizens, instead of only the 190 million already fingerprinted. And it would make much more difficult the formation of a strong underground movement to regain democracy.

Oh, Say Can You See . . .

David Lawrence Says Uncertainty Over Tax Laws Halts Business Planning

WASHINGTON — The American economy has not for several decades suffered the retarding, if not destructive, effects that are being experienced today as a result of the confusion caused by the House of Representatives in passing a "tax reform" bill which contains crucial changes in the existing tax system.

Planning in many instances has already stopped in business and among industrial investors. Companies are waiting to see whether the Senate will modify or adopt some of the provisions that are causing so much concern. Sooner or later, the stock market will discover that the whole method or capital formation in America has been gravely threatened.

Hundreds of thousands of words of technical testimony have been filed with the Senate Finance Committee in the hope that the upper house will revise the pending measure, but it is doubtful whether any constructive result can be obtained in a few weeks or even months.

Meanwhile, many businesses will find themselves slowed down by reason of a hesitancy in certain industries to make capital investments which otherwise would be favored. Also, discontent among top executives will rise as many individuals come face to face with the fact that what they had hoped would be a substantial amount of retirement pay would be slashed by reason of the tax levies now being proposed.

It is estimated that about five billion dollars of individual revenue cuts in the house bill would over the long term be offset by added levies on business.

Capital spending may decline considerably in the next few months because of the nature of the tax bill now pending in the Senate. Economic conditions will not soon be cured either. For if domestic capital formation is impaired, there will be fewer additions to the total number of jobs in the country. With interest rates rising, there are already ill effects noticeable in various industries which normally borrow large sums of money. The uncertainty as to the way the tax laws will be applied will make many companies hesitate even though interest rates are reduced.

One of the most injurious provisions of the house bill to top management is that which deals with "deferred compensation." For years now, numerous companies have tried to arrange for incomes after retirement for their key employees which would provide an incentive in the preceding years. Under existing statutes, it has been possible for the employer to set aside a certain sum each year for the benefit of an executive when he retires, and the Federal tax on this retirement income then would be at the same rate as any other income.

The house bill, however, would alter the rules so that, when an employee receives his deferred compensation on retirement, he will be taxed at the rates which were applicable to his income in the year the contributions were made by the employer for the retirement. But the federal government, under the house bill, would not allow the employee to use the income-tax rate applicable in the year in which he receives the money. The rates of earlier years would be in force and in some instances this would cut in half the deferred compensation.

This particular proposal of the house bill has aroused the opposition of organizations which are protesting the unfairness of the new formula. Deferred compensation as a method of rewarding employees now hangs in the balance.

There are other serious changes which the house bill makes, such as drastic revision of depreciation methods on real property. Also, several companies which do business abroad are finding the proposed tax bill gives them unfavorable treatment. Foundations have sent representatives to Washington to argue against the limitations on contributions to charitable organizations. Many of the foundations have been helpful in educational and scientific projects which have been beneficial to American life.

But the basic trouble with the tax measure is that it is anti-capital. If the provisions in the house bill are retained without revision, this could have an adverse effect on the growth of the capitalistic system in America.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

This family just got a new car. It's called a Maverick which, as I recall, is an unbranded range animal. This makes two automobiles in the immediate family and the situation is intolerable because I knotty-pined the garage and made an office of it. So they sit on a curved driveway glaring at each other's headlights.

My brother John lives a block away and he sold his Falcon for something that looks as though it belonged on the brick of the Indianapolis Speedway. This is hilarious because he and his wife Anna won't go faster than 25 miles per hour, even if someone told them their house was on fire. Johnny drives as if all other drivers were homicidal maniacs out to get him.

"Look at that Klautmeyer!" he roars as someone passes him slowly and carefully. He has had hard luck with vehicles. His trouble is that, if something is wrong with the transmission or rear end, he always has a buddy at a filling station who will fix it for half-price, "as a favor."

When it is repaired, the car purrs all the way home. When he parks, the engine falls out. It is possible to learn a lot about character by watching driving habits. The little old lady who loafs in the speed lane on the toll road won't move over no matter how loud you toot the horn or blink the lights. She knows her rights.

Then there's the weaver. He's either a teen-age boy or an immature man. He cuts in and out of the lanes, missing fenders by inches. Of course, there is always the young man who, if you are doing 60 miles per hour, sits behind your tail light doing 61. I'm thinking of inventing a big boxing glove on a spring, installed on the trunk, for characters like him.

My father was a great driver. But I drove a car before he did and it annoyed the everlasting life out of him to think that he had to take lessons from me. He bought a Hummobile with a rumble seat and it took him four years to find out what that was for. By then, it was too late.

The first time he got behind the wheel, he grasped it tightly with his hands and, at an intersection, I said: "Now swing slowly to the right." He swung, but he never straightened the wheel out. I started to yell: "Brake! Brake!" but he kept going right, up a curb and onto a lawn. He glared straight through clenched teeth. "For Christ's sake!" he roared, "why didn't you say something?"

My first car was a Graham Paige; it cost $300, abused, and I drove through a fog one night and hit the iron girder of a bridge head-on. The fan belt was in my lap. The jalopy looked like a Parker House roll. I went for Oldsmobiles for a while, then Cadillacs, and finally settled on a Lincoln Continental.

Like all good cars, they are great when the electric buttons are working. We've had the current one two years and I think I have driven it 20 times. My wife needs it for shopping, browsing, picking the children up from school, etc. The dogs have been in that car more frequently than I.

Kelly's idea of an automobile is that it has a key and you turn it and everything starts smoothly. It never occurs to her that it might need oil or gasoline or water or air in the tires. Her notion is that it should be as ready as the day it was bought, with no care at all.

Number One daughter, Virginia Lee, has two cars. One is an old bomb which husband Charlie is permitted to use to go to work. The other is a Ford station wagon (or bus?) used for piling the seven children inside like loose oranges. My sister Adele inherited Dad's old yellow Chevrolet, but it was ten years of age when he handed it to her. Until the day he died, he kept asking husband Emil: "Well, how's the old bus going? Good?"

The car was so old it was running on memory. Emil kept it in great condition by piling old hunks of iron and timbers on the back seat. Gayle, number two daughter, has a zippy Mustang. She's the one who knows how to drive. The car is an extension of her body and she can sense danger before it pops into the seat beside her.

Now Kelly and I have bought the new Maverick as a present for Karen and Kathleen. It's a shiny 1970 model. Karen is old enough to drive; Kathy is old enough to sit beside her screaming: "Watch out for that truck, you nut!" Karen is so nervously cautious that I think I can walk faster than she can drive.

Come to think of it, I'm the only vehicle in the garage and I have to keep running smoothly or nobody eats. And there are some friends who think I have a loose nut.

Jack Anderson Says Behind-the-Scenes Manipulations Weaken the 'Gun' Control Bill

WASHINGTON — The gun control law was bought with the blood of President John F. Kennedy. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. With each assassination, the legislation was made stronger and won more supporters.

Now the Nixon administration is trying to reverse the trend by exempting .22 caliber ammunition from the record-keeping provisions of the bill. To keep from arousing the public, it has contrived to get around the Senate Juvenile Delinquency Subcommittee's public hearings.

Unpublished correspondence obtained by this column between Chairman Tom Dodd, D-Conn., and Sen. Wallace Bennett, R-Utah, reveals that Dodd twice invited Bennett to testify. The respected Utah Senator, who is pushing the amendment to exempt .22 ammunition, agreed to appear.

But five days before the hearing, he abruptly changed his mind. He explained in a "Dear Tom" letter: "I learned today on completely reliable authority that even if (my amendment) should be passed by the Senate, it would not get out of the House. Therefore, Bennett asked that the amendment 'be dropped from the hearings and further consideration of it postponed.'"

Dodd Silenced

Thus Dodd, who had planned to oppose the Bennett amendment, was lulled into silence. Bennett, meanwhile, quietly revived his amendment in the Senate Finance Committee and attached it to a tax bill, hidden in the small print.

The Utah Senator, whose reputation for probity put him on the Senate Ethics Committee, informed his colleagues of the Finance Committee that his amendment would not apply to "ammunition . . . for pistols and revolvers."

Treasury Secretary David Kennedy backed him up with a letter saying the amendment "does not affect the record-keeping requirements concerning pistol and revolver ammunition."

The fact is that millions of pistols use exactly the kind of ammunition in the administration-backed exemptions. These range from the handsome .22 caliber Iver Johnson that killed Sen. Kennedy to junk imports that sell for $15.75 apiece. Some 1,900 Americans were killed in 1968 with .22 bullets fired from pistols.

When these facts were called to the attention of Kennedy and Bennett, their aides scurried to "clarify" their misstatements.

There are arguments, of course, against record-keeping for .22 shells. The procedure is annoying, and record storing is a burden. Arguments also can be made to keep the ammunition in the law. It may deter felons who don't want to sign up for ammo.

The sneak play to avoid hearings prevented these issues from reaching the public.

Note: The Justice Department sent Associate Deputy Attorney General Donald Santarelli to Capitol Hill to testify against ammunition record-keeping. The same Santarelli was minority counsel of the House Judiciary Committee back in 1968 when the gun bill was before a House-Senate conference. He parried tirelessly to keep .22 ammunition out of the bill. His patron happened to be Rep. Clark MacGregor, R-Minn., whose district boasts a plant of the Federal Cartridge Corporation, a giant among ammunition makers.

SAIGON REVOLT? — Some South Vietnamese generals are so bitter over what they consider an "ap-peasement" of the North that there's danger they might attempt a military coup or even order their troops to attack the withdrawing U.S. troops. Although it will be denied, this column can report that contingency plans have been drafted in case South Vietnamese troops should turn on the Americans. The anti-American rumblings have been heard as high as Vice President Ky, who has warned privately that any attempt to impose a coalition government upon Saigon will lead to a revolt. Indeed, he has threatened to lead the revolt himself if he considers the Vietnam settlement a sell-out to the communists.

HOT LINE — Rep. Bill Broomfield, R-Mich., president of the Capitol Hill club, has a direct telephone line from his congressional office to the posh club rooms in the nearby Congressional hotel. Membership in the club is restricted to Republicans only, who may like to indulge in a little dignified drinking together. Broomfield assured this column that the club pays for the special telephone line. He acknowledged, however, that his congressional secretaries, who draw their salaries from the taxpayers, help out with club correspondence and bookkeeping. But he turned down a proposal from the club staff, he said, that he use his government funds to buy a surplus electric typewriter for the club.

Woes of Forgotten Whites: Growing, Ominous Rumble

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Slowly but surely, public figures in this capital and in many great urban centers are beginning to discard the term "Backlash" as insufficient to describe the discontent of white working people in this era of the black struggle.

At least since the time Alabama's George Wallace discovered that his appeal ran to areas beyond the South, a larger and larger sliver of the national spotlight has fallen upon the so-called "forgotten American" — and his fears, prejudices, problems and burdens. The writings on his social, economic and political condition are piling up.

The trouble with "backlash" is its identity with the idea of narrow white prejudice. The white workingman's reaction to the black struggle is being discussed today in the wider framework indicated here.

Professional politicians alert for signs that major groups of voters are threatening to shift allegiances have the troubled blue collar worker sharply in their sights these days. Labor's less prosperous elements have seldom been more restless.

The category includes people earning $5,000 to $10,000 a year, overburdened with taxes and mortgages and installment due dates, people more often than not of distinct ethnic origin, Catholic in religion.

One of the more thoughtful analysts of this group, the Rev. Andrew M. Greeley, program director of the University of Chicago's National Opinion Research Center, sees these people as dangerously tense under the goad of fears and frustrations which the black struggle magnifies.

Where ethnic ties are a strong factor, the white workers' resentments seem greatest. As many analysts are now reminding us, the celebrated American "melting pot" has not really worked among the white ethnics and hence is hardly likely to produce miracles of accommodation between whites and blacks.

Says Father Greeley in a 1969 report:

"Hatred for that which is different apparently lurks just beneath our civilized veneer. We are not yet very far from the tribal state. Ethnic diversity seems to be something that man grimly hangs onto."

In their black vs. white context, these attitudes can become explosive, as the building trades confrontations in Chicago and Pittsburgh indicate. The lower-middle economic class of working whites feels seriously put upon, neglected, alienated.

One of the things that most enrages them is the notion, given wide currency, that the problems of poverty, unemployment, bad housing and inadequate school are almost exclusively and problems of black people. Father Greeley says of the whites' schools:

"(They) . . . are often woefully inadequate, as are the more deteriorated black schools in the inner cities. It is not altogether surprising that the residents of these (white) communities object to the emphasis on upgrading black schools alone."

For all the fact that many lower-middle whites broke to George Wallace in the 1963 election and others nearly did, some experts think the big white working class revolt may be still ahead. If it comes but is somehow confined to the nonviolent political realm, it still could have huge impact. Says a veteran appraiser:

If you do not attend to these people, you may not only have them against you — but against you passionately and savagely."

Withdrawal of U.S. Troops

By RAY CROMLEY

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) —

One audience really counts in this troop withdrawal business, says a White House aide. That's Hanoi. And Hanoi cannot be fooled about what real strength is.

If the United States removes combat troops overly rapidly — before the South Vietnamese have time to build their strength to offset the American withdrawals — Hanoi is certain to note this fact.

This overly rapid withdrawal could delay peace. Ho Chi Minh's heirs would almost certainly conclude the United States was about to cut and run. Therefore, it would profit them to wait us out for victory, continue their stalling at Paris indefinitely.

(If the withdrawals resulted in undue weakness in a particular area, of course, North Vietnamese regulars could move in for the slaughter.)

As the above-mentioned White House aide puts it, we get only one guess at this. We cannot go back to the drawing board if we make a mistake.

On the contrary, if troop withdrawals are overly small, they will have little political or military effect, either in North Vietnam or the United States.

The withdrawals must be large enough to convince Hanoi the South Vietnamese can gradually take over their own defense with fewer and fewer U.S. troops, that the longer the war goes on, the stronger South Vietnam will be on its own.

Therefore, the longer the war lasts, the smaller the voice North Vietnam and the Viet Cong will have in any postwar government.

For military, along with political and economic strength, will in the end determine the outcome of the war, these White House men think, now maneuvering in Paris.

If the United States correctly times these troop withdrawals, it will become clear to the men who have replaced Ho that time is now against them, as time once was on their side.

They will no longer be under the impression that the longer they wait the more concessions they'll get.

As White House sources see it, a major obstacle to a settlement now is that Hanoi is not yet convinced there is no floor to concessions below which Washington will not go.

At the same time, key administration men believe, the troop withdrawals must also be large enough to make it clear to Hanoi the United States is serious about its offer to withdraw all forces in an acceptable settlement.

Hopefully, if things go well, these administration men say, after analyzing the pros and cons, Hanoi will then come to the conclusion it can get more now through negotiations than by continuing the war indefinitely.

But all this logic leaves us with the original $64 question — How to withdraw a number of troops large enough to be politically and militarily significant, but not so large as to undermine our entire position.

Loyalty Day Parade
Editor, The Freeman

I have read in your news report regarding some of the questions and reports of the recent Loyalty Day parade which was held on Saturday September 27, 1969, and the disappointment of the chairman Mr. Schwerdtfeger of the local 461 Uniformed Firefighters Association and the remarks of Gilbert E. Gray, Commanding officer of the Ulster County Marine Corp. league, who has promised that there will be a Loyalty Day parade in Kingston in 1970.

I believe that I have some suggestions for 1970 to offer to Mr. Gray, and would also suggest that Mr. Schwerdtfeger and his association do not get discouraged, but perhaps jointly take up the Loyalty Day parade with a few corrections of time, and participation and in planning this parade with all civic, firemanic, veterans, and other groups taking a active part in planning such a Loyalty Day parade.

This suggestion I am offering not in criticism, but in a effort that my experience could perhaps made this one of the greatest events in the city of Kingston. In 1954, I was general chairman of Loyalty Day week in Dutchess county, which was a four hour parade, and them again in 1959, where it again was a four hour parade with everyone participating, and it still is in existence.

I make the following suggestion, which I hope that your newspaper can give some space so that such a parade in 1970 will be a success, I list them as follows:

Hold Loyalty Day on a Sunday, preferably to start at 1:30 p.m. as close to May 1, 1970 as possible. Loyalty Day is on May 1, 1970, and was originally started by the New York City Veterans of Foreign Wars to counteract the Communist parade in New York City. Therefore this is now held in many cities in the United States. The Veterans of Foreign Wars are mostly sponsors of this Loyalty Day Parade, which is still continuing in United States by the National Loyalty Day Committee in various localities.

Not on Saturday in September. This is a bad day of the week and too late in the season.

If this parade would be held on Sunday, it would not interfere with the business (local) and they would be able to participate, perhaps with floats etc.

May 1, is the proper time for such a parade as loyalty Day. I know that the local Veterans of Foreign Wars National Program where they have full information on such a Loyalty Day week and number of programs where everyone participates.

Our experience has also shown us that Boy and Girl Scouts and other youth organizations were placed in the second division as our future leaders of our city and country and not on the tail end of the parade. We showed them off and the others followed them.

We have had our high school groups take active part in planning. Both students and teachers in the county, participated with nurses, K of C with their fourth Degree Knights in full dress uniforms, likewise the Masonic Lodges, the nurses in full dress uniform, firemen, sheriff offices, our National Guards, firemen all of them, police, state police, Moose Lodge, and many others. We gave instructions to division commanders and everyone was instructed to perform properly while in the parade. It was a success and still is a success. Without having all participate in planning is wrong, and therefore cannot bring interest to such a affair. One organization cannot do it alone. We must have everyone of the organizations taking part with

We had started our meetings in January with every group participating in planning the entire week of the Loyalty Day parade. Assignments were given to each group and it was a success and still is a success.

Without having all participate in planning is wrong, and therefore cannot bring interest to such a affair. One organization cannot do it alone. We must have everyone of the organizations taking part with your city and county officials taking part in such a parade and activity during the week.

We had an Essay contest regarding the Loyalty Day and gave out prizes. We had a Loyalty Day Queen and contest. We had other programs planned by the principals of the schools in the entire county, by all organizations during the entire week, and we finished off with a large parade. We have drawn as many as 20,000 people to witness same and over 10,000 people participating.

I would like to have you run a column on this suggestion, as I feel that you and your paper would do the community a great service with this type of program and it would be a success.

Very Truly Yours,

Induction Refusal
Editor, The Freeman

On page one of your October 2 issue, you printed a picture of my son as he was about to refuse induction into the armed services. So that people who knew Eric as he was growing up might make a fairer judgment of his action, I respectfully request that you print the text of his refusal statement.

Eric is well aware of the prison sentence he is facing. He also knows of a number of ways he could have evaded the draft "legally." His only hope in choosing draft refusal is that this action will cause those who know him to re-examine their own thoughts on the necessity and inevitability of war.

Idealistic? Yes, but we should not forget that this great country of ours was founded on idealism.

ALICE JOHNSON

Following is the text of the refusal statement:
I, Eric Johnson, have been ordered to report for induction into the United States Armed Forces on October 1, 1969. Today, September 22, I publicly declare that I refuse to join those Armed Forces, both now and in the future.

The nuclear, biological and chemical means for destruction possessed by the United States and the Soviet Union is now sufficient to obliterate at least one half of the world's people. What will our capacity for destruction be in 1980?

By tradition, we have repeatedly chosen to use military force in defending our national integrity. This tradition is so well established that many of us are not conscious that any choice is involved. However, though individual men may be inherently aggressive and violent, organized violence is not inherently human.

Organized violence is not inevitable. Organized violence is not honorable.

Because our ability to kill is so great, our military strength no longer protects us, but rather the military itself threatens our existence. If we are to survive and prosper, we must choose international cooperation. Vietnam cannot be allowed to happen again.

This has been a painful decision. I know that many people will interpret my refusal as a rejection of our entire American way of life. This is not true. I do not hate or disrespect our laws, our Congress, or our President. But I know of no government that is willing to voluntarily disarm. I believe that the time has come for each of us to examine his own conscience, to find courage and to act.

Memoriam
In loving memory of Albert Brown, who passed away October 8, 1967.

Just when his days seemed brightest,

Just when his hopes seemed best,

God called him from amongst us.

To his eternal rest.

Sadly missed, but God knows best.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks opened mixed today in moderate turnover.

Market averages again are flirting with late July lows, and there appears to be little in the news budget to force a change in direction. Still, some analysts believe a short term rally, possibly for technical reasons only, could be in the offing following an almost uninterrupted two-week slide.

Shortly after the opening, the UPI marketwide indicator was crossing the tape. Of these, 133 off 0.03 per cent on 360 issues crossing the tape. Of these, 133 declined, and 126 advanced.

Motors were mixed, but steel backed off. Oils moved in both directions, as did electric.

Brazilian Plane Is Hijacked

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI)—A Brazilian Caravelle airliner with 50 persons aboard was hijacked today and ordered to fly to Cuba, government officials reported in Rio.

They said the plane of the Cruzeiro do Sul Airlines was flying down the Amazon River Valley from Belem to Manaus when it was forced to go to Georgetown, Guyana, en route to Cuba.

Airline officials said the Air Ministry and Foreign Office officials "are following the events."

Council . . .

why Machione didn't ask his questions of the developers at the public hearing on Thursday night. Said Norton, "When it comes to meeting nights we have another lawyer in town. Why doesn't Machione ask these questions before the meetings?"

A number of other aldermen pointed out that the Council was voting on a zoning change, not the merits of a prospective developer. The vote was 12-1 with Machione voting against it.

Emilio Primo (D-Eighth Ward) notified the Council that his Arterial Committee had met with officials of the State Department of Transportation on the arterial and had the latest maps on the proposed road through Broadway East.

Primo asked City Clerk Lyle to contact three local banks, the Rondout Savings Bank, the Rondout National Bank and the Ulster County Savings Bank for their permission to display the maps for the benefit of the public in their lobbies for two weeks period each.

The meeting was adjourned, at the request of majority leader Norton, in memory of former Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick of Ellenville who died on Monday.

THOMAS J. MACKELL

Area Dems To Hear Queens DA

KINGSTON

Queens District Attorney and former state senator, Thomas J. Mackell will be the guest speaker at the annual Ulster County Democratic dinner to be held Sunday, Oct. 12 at the Granit Hotel in Accord.

Announcement of Mackell's acceptance of the speaking engagement was made this week by Mrs. Aaron C. Klein, dinner chairman.

Mackell, a former member of New York City's Police Department will speak on the subject of narcotics.

The son of Irish immigrants who came to this country at the turn of the century, he obtained his degree of bachelor of laws in 1942 from St. John's University School of Law.

After 10 years with the Police department and attaining the rank of detective, Mackell resigned to take up the practice of law and became a senior partner in the Queens law firm of Holtzman, Sharf, Mackell and Hellenbrand.

Mackell was first elected to the State Senate in 1954 and reelected to six consecutive terms.

In 1965 he was named chairman of the Senate committee on affairs of the City of New York and also the joint legislative committee on interstate cooperation. In this latter capacity he developed the interstate compact as an instrumentality for solving the pressing regional problem of mass transportation, and also served as chairman of the first regional conference in transportation sponsored by the Council of State Governments.

In 1966, he was elected district attorney of Queens County and assumed that office on Jan. 1, 1967 to fulfill a predecessor's unexpired term of one year. Later that year he was elected to a full four year term.

Tickets to the dinner may be secured from any Democratic committeeman.

Eleanor Roosevelt was born in 1884, and married Franklin Delano Roosevelt, her distant cousin, 20 years later. After her death in 1962, she was buried beside her husband in the Roosevelt Rose Garden.

The Roosevelt Home is a National Historic Site administered by the National Park Service, and is open to visitors from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. every day.

Senate Learns More About the Bilking

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Five sergeants already accused of bilking Army service clubs boosted their take by forming a California corporation that racked up $1 million in sales before it was 11 months old. Senate investigators were told today.

Its customers were Army service clubs, sometimes managed by the sergeants themselves, investigators said.

Its five founders and stockholders included Sgt. Maj. William O. Woodridge, formerly the Army's top enlisted man, and four cronies who have been named repeatedly in testimony before the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee.

The subcommittee is in its second week of hearings on the alleged service clubs scandal.

The firm is called Maredem Co. Subcommittee spokesmen said its name was romantically contrived from the first names of the sergeants' wives, and its business kept growing until the Army blacklisted it from the club business this year.

Woodridge and the other sergeants were accused in previous testimony of pocketing hundreds of thousands of dollars from service clubs, which are supported by money GIs spend for food, drink and entertainment. Witnesses said the sergeants "rigged" slot machines and "skimmed" their proceeds, embezzled thousands, took liquor by the case and grabbed kickbacks from entertainment bookers and suppliers of goods.

Listed with Woodridge as Maredem stockholders were Seymour Lazar, now Maredem

UCC Extends The Serigraphy Registration

STONE RIDGE
Registration has been extended until Thursday for a Serigraphy course that Ulster County Community College will offer in the evening this fall, Ronald A. Koster, the director of Continuing Education, said today.

Koster said registration has been extended because of numerous inquiries the College has recently received about the course which is scheduled to be offered Thursday nights starting Oct. 16, at the college's Stone Ridge campus.

This non-credit course will offer basic instruction for beginners and advanced students in silk screen painting. The instructor will be Bernard Steffen, Woodstock, an internationally renowned painter and printmaker.

Enrollment in the course will be limited.

Meanwhile, college officials said a 10 week course in Effective Reading for Business and Pleasure will begin on Tuesday, as well as a course in Amateur Radio and one in Film Studies.

The three evening courses are non-credit, said the college.

Rochester Sets Public Hearing For New Budget

ACCORD

Increases were noted in the preliminary budget of the Town of Rochester which was presented at the October meeting of the town board.

The Accord Fire District showed an increase of $2,141.80 and the overall increase in the general and highway budget is $3,236.79.

A public hearing on the proposed budget will be held at the regular meeting Thursday, Nov. 6 at 8 p.m.

Local Law No. 1 for 1969 was passed unanimously. The law will govern public assembly of more than 5,000 persons in the public and private places in the Town of Rochester. Such assemblies, under the so-called White Lake Law, will have to comply with health, safety and law enforcement agencies and show proper insurance coverage before being granted a permit by the town board.

Underground mining operations of an ore mining company in Ontario, Canada, require the use of some 40 million board feet of timber each year.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise: Try this for me. If you use an eyebrow pencil . . . first wet your eyebrows with a cloth, or hold your finger under water and wipe across your eyebrows—and then mark 'em.

How much more beautifully your eyebrow pencil goes on. Especially if you have some gray eyebrows.

Old Lady

It works! I don't know why, but it covers up the gray just like the lady said. And how about calling it silver, gals? It sure sounds prettier.

Heloise

Dear Heloise: We all know that our mattresses have to be switched around periodically to help preserve them.

Well, I have a wonderful husband, but a forgetful one, so as the result, he always forgets to do this job for me. Then I got what I thought was a great idea to help jog his memory.

I made up the bed at the wrong end and that night when he pulled down the bedspread, he found that the mattress had to be rotated if he wanted to sleep with his head against the headboard. He laughed, but he did switch the bed around.

A Young Housewife

Dear Heloise: My idea applies to all of us still-wishful souls who haven't self-defrosting refrigerators.

Put your ice cube trays into plastic bags before placing them in the freezer compartment. You'll find that no frost will form on the cubes or trays.

Moreover, the compartment stays free of frost longer, thus lengthening the period between defrostings.

Carol Beer

Dear Heloise: I love eye makeup and since I have to wear glasses, my most precious possession is my light-up mirror—the kind with a regular side and a magnified side.

After using it a few times, face powder, hair spray, etc. accumulate on the mirror and I can't apply my eye makeup as easily.

Well, to save some time and steps . . . Just drop one or two drops of your liquid eyeglass cleaner on the mirror, wipe off with a facial tissue, and your mirror will never look cleaner or brighter.

Annie

Dear Heloise: Isn't it super-delicious when something turns out better than one expects? Just dyed a white wool scarf light blue and it looks better than it ever did when it was white!

Mrs. Roy Lingle

Letter of Laughter

Dear Heloise: Our bathtub drain was sluggish from soap and whatever else clogs a drain.

My husband prepared a mix (his very own brainstorm!), poured it down the drain, let it stand a few minutes, then flushed it through with lots of hot water.

I must admit I was leery, but now the water drains out so fast we have to be sure to remove ourselves from the tub before pulling the plug! (Well, maybe not that fast, but fast!)

Mrs. W. C. B.

Dear Heloise: I love small new Irish potatoes, but hate to scrape them.

So I fill the pot with hot water from the hot water tap. Put in my potatoes, place on the burner of the stove set at high, and let come to a boil.

Then remove immediately from the burner, drain off the hot water and run cold water over them.

You'll be so pleased. The skins will come off so easily, eyes and all.

Doing the Right Thing

ELIZABETH L. POST
Friends and Relatives Visit New Baby

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband's aunt did not visit me in the hospital nor at home to see my newborn baby. Should I have brought the baby to her house for her to see him, or should I have not, since she was capable of visiting me? — Mrs. L.

Dear Mrs. L.: Since it is not easy to take a young baby visiting, family members and friends are expected to go to the parents' home to see the new arrival. They should always call the mother first to be sure to choose a convenient time.

Manner of Contradiction Makes All the Difference

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it polite for a child to correct one of his parents in the presence of strangers even if the parent is obviously wrong? — Jennie.

Dear Jennie: It all depends on the way it is done. It is never, never good manners for a child to correct or contradict an older person flatly. However, it is not wrong at all for the young people to say "But mother, don't you think it might be better to do it this way?" Explain your reasons for not agreeing with your parents, and try to persuade them to try it your way.

Homemade Cookies Taken to Reception

Dear Mrs. Post: Did I do the right thing? I baked some fancy cookies and arranged them on trays and took them to my niece's wedding reception, which was catered at a hotel. The party was mostly family and some of her friends. My sister told me I never should have done anything like that — that it was an insult to the hotel caterer. — M.E.

Dear Mrs. E.: You should not have taken cookies to a catered reception. I am sure you meant no insult to the caterer, but your gesture did seem to imply that you did not think there would be enough food, or food of a type you thought should be served. Your sister made her plans with the caterer, and paid well to have them carried out, and it was not your prerogative to add to or change the chosen menu.

Style of Innumerable Rings

Dear Mrs. Post: Are little finger rings fashionable for women? When are these worn? Must all rings be worn on the right hand, unless engagement or wedding rings? — Pam.

Dear Pam: "Little finger" or "pinkie" rings are fine at any time when not worn next to another ring. Other rings may be worn on either hand as long as the number is restricted. I know perfectly well that the current style is to wear innumerable rings on adjacent fingers, but I do not like it. Ostentation in any form is in poor taste, and to wear a conglomeration of frequently ill matched rings is nothing more than "gilding the lily." It is a question of whether you want to appear to be "in" or to show your good sense by sticking to more becoming styles.

Formal Evening Wedding

Dear Mrs. Post: When a wedding reception card reads: "Formal reception," 7:30 in the evening, does this mean formal clothes—that is, long or cocktail dresses for women, tails or tuxedos for men? — Maria

Dear Maria: Yes, it means tuxedos for male guests and long dinner dresses — or the equivalent of short evening dresses are in style—for the ladies. Years ago, all men at a formal evening wedding wore "white tie," but today, only the men in the wedding party and, on some occasions, relatives of the bride and groom do so.

HALLOWEEN RAISIN PUMPKIN CAKE

For Goblins, Ghosts, Children

For something to hoot about, these wide old owls suggest a pumpkin cake that conjures up a smiling Jack O'Lantern, with California raisins. It's the season's treat, sure to make a hit with active little ghosts and goblins. There's a treat for you too when you see how simple this raisin cake is to make — no tricks!

Begin with readily available convenience foods — California seedless raisins, yellow cake mix and canned pumpkin. Once the batter is prepared, simply bake it in an oven-proof bowl. Turn out and you have a natural pumpkin shape ready to frost with orange buttercream icing. California raisins are just right for making the eyes, nose and mouth of our jolly pumpkin.

We think you'll find this cake so delicious you'll want to carry it into the festive season ahead. Use your imagination — bake in a variety of shapes and sizes and trim it holiday style.

And to keep those peeping little ghosts and goblins from pulling any tricks on Halloween, give them a favorite treat — sweet, delectable raisin "little packs" available in ½ and 1½-ounce sizes. They are sure to leave your door grinning happily.

Halloween Raisin Pumpkin Cake

- 1 (1-pound 2-4-ounce) package yellow cake mix
- 2 teaspoons pumpkin pie spice
- Water
- Eggs
- 1 cup chopped California seedless raisins
- Orange Buttercream Frosting

Combine cake mix, spice and water as cake package directs, reducing water by ½ cup. Mix according to package directions. Stir in raisins. Turn 4½ cups batter in greased 5½-cup oven-proof mixing bowl. Spoon remaining batter into 4 or 5 greased 6-ounce custard cups, using about ½ cup batter for each. Bake large cake in slow oven (300 degrees F.) 1½ hours and small cakes about 30 minutes. Let cakes stand 10 minutes then invert on wire track to cool. Frost large cake with Orange Buttercream Frosting, stroking from bottom of cake to top to give ridged pumpkin effect.

ORANGE BUTTERCREAM FROSTING: Beat together until smooth and creamy 2½ cups sifted powdered sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 3 tablespoons soft butter and 2 tablespoons milk. Add few drops orange food coloring to give desired color. If necessary, beat in a few drops extra milk for easy spreading consistency.

Fish to Participate in Dedication Of Rondout Pool-Golf Complex

ACCORD, N.Y. (UPI)—Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. will participate in the dedication ceremonies of the Rondout Pool and Golf Association Sunday.

The open house celebration at the sports complex located on the Whitfield Road in Accord will begin at noon and continue to 4 p.m. with refreshments served to adults and children.

Announcement of the event was made today by the membership committee which will represented locally by Charles Locke.

Herbert Waterous, association manager will be present at the open house to serve as a guide and answer questions, according to John Parete, vice president of the board of directors.

In addition to the FHA, the association also called upon the services of another county and federal agency, the Ulster County Soil Conservation District which was instrumental in designing pond installations and 3,500 feet of open ditches to take care of excess water.

According to Francis E. Mulvaney, Soil Conservation Service District Conservationist, the soils on the 138-acre site nestled between the Mohonk and Catskill Mountain ranges are primarily silt and clay loam except on the high land where the clubhouse and pool area are being located on deep sands.

This meant that the golf course planners had to take these soil characteristics into consideration in laying out the course including ditches for drainage and installation of an irrigation system, described by

VIEW FROM THE TOP—Looking down on part of the new Rondout Pool and Golf Association sport complex in Accord, described as one of the most beautiful courses between New York and Albany, one can see tractors and bulldozers at work on the sprawling terrain which is to be dedicated next Sunday by Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. The pond in the foreground is one of several designed to keep the course interesting.

Gardiner Town Board Member Urges Some Cuts in '70 Budget

By BRUCE KAUFMAN

GARDINER

A member of Gardiner Town Board suggested to his slightly surprised colleagues at the regular board meeting here, Tuesday night, that sizable cuts be made in the town's preliminary 1970 budget.

Gardiner Town Justice Warren McDowell suggested that the proposed cuts were necessary because "we must do all in our power to ease the taxpayer's burden."

The township's preliminary budget, tentatively approved about a month ago, totals in excess of $117,000. McDowell proposed that cuts of at least $10,000 be instituted.

Reaction to McDowell's surprise proposal varied from silence to mild outrage.

Town of Gardiner Supervisor George Majestic called the move a "stunt" designed to "make it seem like the Town Board was not doing its job."

Visibly annoyed, Majestic went on to say that McDowell should have made his recommendations at the September meeting when the budget was discussed in detail.

McDowell noted that his suggested cuts would virtually negate the increase in total appropriations over the present year's budget. Countering, Majestic pointed out that despite the increase, the tax rate for property owners in the township would remain the same.

Following a heated interchange between Majestic and McDowell, the preliminary budget was approved by a 4 to 1 vote with McDowell casting the lone no.

The budget will be reviewed again at an open public hearing on Nov. 6.

The cuts proposed by McDowell were in a number of areas, most prominently recreation and salaries. The most conspicuous was a cut of the $1,000 salary increase designated for town supervisor.

Majestic, a Democrat, is currently involved in litigation to block a move initiated by McDowell and other Gardiner Republicans to have his dual candidacy for supervisor and county legislator nullified.

The State Supreme Court barred Majestic from running for either post; however, he is currently appealing the court's decision.

Students Plan Moratorium Day

NEW PALTZ

Students at the State University College at New Paltz are calling for a general boycott of classes on Oct. 15, in accordance with the national moratorium against the War in Vietnam.

The moratorium, organized by a coalition of student anti-war groups is being called to dramatize campus opposition to the war.

At a recent meeting, attended by more than 300 students at the college, it was agreed that instead of attending classes on Oct. 15, students will be urged to take part in various anti-war activities.

One such activity calls for students to visit New Paltz residents, in their homes, to discuss the controversial war. There are also plans to participate in a peace march through the streets of Poughkeepsie.

According to Martin McPhillips, a student organizer for the moratorium, attempts will be made to rally community support behind the moratorium in order to protest "the senseless killing."

In addition to the students, many faculty members have also committed themselves to boycott classes on Oct. 15.

Elderly Neglected, Claims Candidate

NEW PALTZ

The Democratic Party candidate for New Paltz town justice, Arthur Bouchard has criticized the townships Republican leadership for neglecting the "older and stabilizing citizens of the community."

Bouchard said that the town should be considering programs in such areas as recreation, education and other services for elderly citizens.

However, he continued, "we are at the point where older folks have to sell their hard earned homes because they can't afford to pay taxes."

Specifically, Bouchard was referring to a revelation made by the New Paltz Central School District Board of Education, criticizing the town's tax assessors for failing to inform senior citizens to apply for their property tax exemptions.

"How can older people plan their savings with such a situation," Bouchard said. "The very least we should demand is equitable and accurate assessment."

Regarding the lack of senior citizen programs in New Paltz, the Democratic nominee pledged that he would work actively to encourage such programs.

New Police Officer In Red Hook Village

RED HOOK

The Village of Red Hook Monday evening appointed its second full-time police officer at a regular board meeting.

Richard Krieger, a resident of Tivoli, passed the necessary Civil Service examinations, and will join Rex Maine as a full-time patrolman. The village also uses several part-time men to supplement the service.

A petition was presented by William Crane, signed by residents of West Market Street, advocating "noise abatement, speed control," and a new traffic light at the entrance to the high school.

"This idea has been for mutating for some time," noted Village Clerk Frances Rabbett. The Board will give the necessary information to the State Department of Transportation, which will decide on whether or not the light can be put up on Route 199.

Peter Troy, an officer of Cablevision in Dutchess County and vice president of the Red Hook Telephone Company, discussed the possible future of Cablevision in Red Hook with members of the board, but nothing concrete resulted.

Drug Cases Are Adjourned

RED HOOK

Judge Frank B. Martin said Tuesday that all of the narcotics cases picked up during the Sept. 27 six-hour Dutchess County Sheriff's Department roadblocks were adjourned Saturday for two weeks.

There were 12 persons arrested for narcotics possession in the sixth degree, a misdemeanor. All of the 58 motor vehicle violations have been processed.

Breaks Sound Barrier

TOULOUSE, France (UPI)—The Concorde supersonic transport (SST) jetliner broke the sound barrier Tuesday for the second time in a week, reaching 730 miles an hour in a 110-minute test flight, the Sud Aviation Co. said. The plane, built jointly by the British and the French, first broke the sound barrier Oct. 1.

The Vatican Speaks Out

New Understanding of Sex Is Major Upheaval of Age

In an unprecedented series of articles, through his distinguished Vatican emissaries, Pope Paul VI speaks out on the moral issues of today: the pill and population, the breakup of the family, love, sex and marriage. These exclusive articles were prepared at the request of this newspaper to answer the questions arising from the reaction of the Pope's encyclical on regulation of birth.

This article, the last of eight, deals with the change in man's attitude toward sex.

LOVE AND FERTILITY
By P. Gustave Martelet, S. J.

All the important discoveries made by man have provoked crises. The discovery of fire, the cutting of stone, the domestication of animals, the growing of crops, the sail, the wheel, writing, iron, printing, the discovery of the new world, the splitting of the atom, space exploration and cybernetics, all these stages of the technical or cultural growth of humanity have had their repercussions upon man and upon the world, to the point, at times, of shaking their very foundations.

Our era is characterized by one such upheaval, an upheaval at once technical and cultural, individual and social. Man's understanding of sex, after millennia, is changing. Man has ascertained that in himself sex is not to be identified with procreation alone. Having learned to control the power of generation he now sees sex as a unifying force. Sex is not procreative, in the full sense, unless crowned with conjugal union, its most intimate language.

Men had not to await the 20th century to discover this truth, but very often the generative side of reproduction was made to prevail in the morals of love. The Judeo-Christian tradition, which was the first to discern in conjugal love the supreme symbol of the love of God for the world, for instance in Hosea, The Canticle of Canticles, the Gospels, St. Paul and the Apocalypse, was unable to impress this truth upon people's consciousness, even though it is evident and elementary that the most astounding element of conjugal love is not its fecundity but its power to unite.

The encyclical Humanae Vitae re-echoes this truth. "As experience testifies," writes Paul VI, "not every conjugal encounter is followed by a new life." Moreover, in the normal course of events acts of conjugal union are not generative every time. . . . "God," the encyclical goes on to say, "in his wisdom has laid down natural laws and rhythms of fecundity sufficient to guarantee that births are spaced well apart from each other." Therefore, if it is true that "every matrimonial act should remain open to the transmission of life" (n. 11) proper to itself, it is equally true that every marriage act cannot have for its raison d'être the transmission of life, for this can be lacking. The union of spouses alone fully justifies a conjugal act as long as this union does not run counter to "its being ordained to the high vocation of man to parenthood" (n. 12). Thus the encyclical describes at once the discovery which precipitated the crisis, as well as describing the solution, or rather principles for a solution deriving from a true understanding of love. The discovery that precipitated the crisis is this, that the expressing of love does not necessarily have to be procreative in order to be humanly meaningful. The crisis itself consists in this: that married couples think that they themselves are authorized to suspend, on their own initiative, the fecundity which is part of love. The solution is that love is so great as to overcome the apparent opposition between itself and fecundity.

No Real Objective

Besides, the violently experienced opposition of our time, particularly in the West, between the rights and the duties of love and its obligations regarding the generation of life, seems to many to have no real objective. Perhaps man has the duty and the right to develop the resources which nature hides but which lie dormant, through technical means? Wheat and rice, vines and hops, all these products of "nature" call for man's intervention. They are part of technology, they come from cultivation. Man makes progress in no sector unless he harnesses the natural power which is in things and in himself to his own benefit. Medicine, surgery, obstetrics, pediatrics bear witness to the truth of the latter point. It has been discovered that sex is not always procreative! Why not draw out the consequences of this discovery and transform this new discovery of "the nature of things" into technology and art, in order to exploit it for his own purposes? In the sphere of human love this, today, is the question which has provoked the crisis and upset the traditional understanding of the relation between love and fecundity.

What answer does the encyclical furnish? It is reproached with having exalted the sacredness of the body in the sphere of love. The encyclical in fact uses this as a yardstick. For although we are inflated with ideas of our own personal greatness, our body is not something of our own invention, and is the only truly human body. It is not in itself an unformed chaos which technology has the duty to manipulate according to its varying capabilities. The human body exists as a "regulated" whole, as biologists say. Although fragile, it has order and structure. Curing it still entails respecting its laws. Above all, its power to transmit life embodies "biological laws (properly so-called) which are part of the human person" (n. 10), which, in this respect "nobody, even if invested with authority, may licitly break" (n. 17), without infringing thereby the rights of the subject. Between man and woman everything is linked together, everything attracts. For this reason many things, which in the beginning seemed to be merely natural about sex, and hence "biological" in the pejorative sense of that term, reveal in fact "an over-all vision of man's and of his vocation" (n. 7) and recalls that the doctrine "often reveals his grandeur. Whatever affects man in his body affects his state of mind as well and, in some way, his very spirit. Certainly in love, to a lesser extent than in all the rest, the body is not a simple thing, on the contrary it is a very human element here, and a most meaningful one.

In two short words, whose richness nonetheless seems to fact "an over-all vision of man's life in accordance with laws from its obligations towards eliminated or the family written into the very nature of life, love would become, in destroyed? At all events, since man and woman. By youth especially, one of those today this is publicly debated safeguarding these two essential "crazy ships" on which man and the indissolubility of aspects, unitive and and, even more so, women marriage not any better procreative, the conjugal act would soon be shipwrecked. Still respected, the link between the preserves in its fullness the further the encyclical goes on two meanings of love in itself meaning of true mutual love to warn us of the fact that demands an increased respect and its ordering to man's lofty contraception imprudently from Christians and from all calling to parenthood. We placed among the duties and men.

here, "that the men of our time believe," and Paul VI concludes state control in family life. Therefore, while it is definitely necessary to re-examine the meaningful love relations and their bearing on "responsible parenthood," preached by the Council and recalled by the encyclical (n. 10), the arbitrary division between love and the transmission of life which is brought about by contraception cannot be admitted.

Conveying the precise meaning of this doctrine involves raising oneself, along with the encyclical, to apparently inaccessible biological and truly human heights. Psychology, demography, sociology, therapeutic care, while these are important, are not enough to dispense us from a truly spiritual light that alone can enlighten here the wellsprings from which the human being comes. And so no anguish, at a personal or national level, which appears to contradict the good understood by the encyclical, is ignored by it. They are all presumed, but they are caught up in a higher consideration which reconciles opposites and boldly refuses to dissociate itself from that which is necessary for reaching its goal of reconciliation.

The inseparable connection between the two meanings of love, unity and procreation, is as difficult, or more difficult to abolish, through contraception, preserve, it is true, than the bond which unites husband and wife forever, but it belongs to the same order. Undoubtedly the marriage bond, in the true sense of the word, gives rise to the family and conditions the family's openness to all other values.

What, for instance, would be the relation between the language of love and the power to eroticism, that is, unchained to give life if love itself were

Nothing Unusual

This is nothing unusual. Critical situations increase the tasks of those who have diagnosed them. In particular they oblige the mind to shake off the bonds of those habits which would bar the way to deeper understanding and consequent liberation from the crises.

"Married Love," the encyclical teaches, "is seen in its true nature and in all its nobility, when considered in its true source, God, who is love. The Father, from whom all fatherhood in heaven and on earth takes its name." (n. 8). The crisis which love is undergoing in its relation with fecundity will be overcome sooner or later by those who understand that, in defending life which lies hidden in love, they are defending love in its most truly human and divine form. The similarity with God is the only proven and sufficient source of the conjugal grandeur of love. The inseparable connection between the different meanings of love, perhaps the finest point of the encyclical, is tied up with God Himself, as it also the indissolubility which unites the spouses themselves forever. And similarly, the synthesis of the values of love, which modern man pretends he has the right to separate and consequently to abolish, through contraception, itself represents the "great work" of education, of progress, and of love" (n. 31) to which, prophetically, the Pope calls all families.

It is only those who understand the value for humanity of this appeal who will be able to make a valid response.

GOP Issues Countercharges

These problems can only be avoided by electing a supervisor who has the time to devote to the job, McCaig said. The Republican chairman also said that the Democratic supervisor is a friendly and gregarious person and that his criticism was in no way intended to be personal. However, McCaig added, when a person seeks elective office he must realize that his performance is subject to scrutiny and criticism. This is part of the American political process and is not intended as personal criticism.

UCCC Drops Cross Country and Bowling

STONE RIDGE country and bowling, this year was made by the Ulster Community College Association, incorporated. This group is composed of students and representatives of the college faculty and administration, which reviews budget requests by student activity groups and the Department of Athletics.

Kenneth J. Wolf, Director of Athletics at Ulster County Community College, announced today that the UCC Association Incorporated has suspended competition in two intercollegiate sports cross-country meet against Orange County Community College. On-ly one runner competed for UCCC in the meet with Rockland, staged recently. Informed sources also stated that the reason that bowling had been dropped was because of the high expense of the sport and that interest in it as a participant and spectator sport, had been on the wane.

Wolf concluded by saying the canceling of these two sports does not preclude the possibility of the 1969-70 academic year of the College participating in intercollegiate competition in these two sports in the 1970-71 academic year.

Wolf said that the decision to drop cross country and bowling was made by the Ulster Community College Association, incorporated. This group is composed of students and representatives of the college faculty and administration, which reviews budget requests by student activity groups and the Department of Athletics.

TO TOM, WITH LOVE . . . New York Mets' ace right hander Tom Seaver, using his day off to catch up on fan mail at Shea Stadium, shows off a bit. Listed as underdogs to the Baltimore Orioles in the World Series which starts in Baltimore Saturday, the Mets are expected to start off with Seaver, who led the majors in victories this season with 25. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Cuellar to Start, So Mets Make Shift

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets who scored 27 runs on 37 hits against the Atlanta Braves won't all be in the starting lineup against Baltimore in the first two games of the World Series.

While nothing may succeed like success, Manager Gil Hodges of the Mets has his own method of achieving it. It's called platooning.

So, with Baltimore opening the series Saturday and Sunday with left-handers Mike Cuellar and Dave McNally, Hodges has decided to counter with his right-handed lineup of Ron Swoboda, Donn Clendenon, Ed Charles and maybe Al Weis.

Of the four, Weis was the only one to get into a game against Atlanta's three right-handed starting pitchers. He was a defensive replacement and went hitless in one at bat.

Replacing them on the bench will be:

Shamsky to Sit
Right-fielder Art Shamsky the top hitter in the series with seven hits in 13 at bats after hitting a powerful .300 during the regular season.

Second basemen Ken Boswell, a late season hero who hit .279 and then was 4-for-12 against the Braves, including a two-run homer and run-scoring single in the finale.

Third baseman Wayne Garrett, a .215 hitter during the regular season who came through with 5-for-13 against Atlanta, including a two-run homer that put the Mets ahead to stay in the clincher.

And first baseman Ed Kranepool, a .238 performer during the season and 3-for-12 in the playoffs.

Swoboda, in right field, was another hero down the stretch, finishing with a .235 average, driving in 52 runs in only 327 at bats. Clendenon, at first base, hit .248 with 16 home runs and 51 RBI in only 331 at bats.

Weis, at second base, hit only .215 with little power, and Charles, at third base, managed only a .207 average.

However, Hodges said today that because Cuellar throws a screwball that makes him very effective against right-handers, he might make a platooning exception and stick with Boswell instead of switching to Weis.

Like all but one of the Mets, the four would be starting their first World Series. Only reliever Ron Taylor has played in the classic, with the 1964 St. Louis Cardinals. That, however, does not include Hodges and the coaching staff.

Hodges was in seven series as a player and coach Yogi Berra was in 13 as a player and one as a manager. Coaches Rube Walker and Joe Pignatano were in one each.

Hodges will stick with the rest of the lineup that bombarded Atlanta—Tommy Agee, Cleon Jones, Jerry Grote and Bud Harrelson, all right-handed hitters.

"No Destiny," Says Brooks

BALTIMORE (AP) — Brooks Robinson of the Baltimore Orioles has read a lot in recent weeks about the New York Mets and their ace pitchers, Tom Seaver and Jerry Koosman.

It makes nice reading, but it doesn't phase the veteran third baseman who faces the Mets in the World Series starting Saturday.

"I don't believe in that team of destiny business," Robinson said of the Mets surge to the National League pennant. "Dick Hall and Clay Dalrymple just came over to us from the other league and they both say we're better than the Mets. That's good enough for me."

As for Seaver, who won 25 games, and Koosman, a 17-game winner, Robinson tried to put them in the proper perspective.

"I hit against them in spring training and in the All-Star game," he said, "and they're terrific pitchers—as good as anybody in our league."

"I don't mind telling you, I was a little scared going out to play the Los Angeles Dodgers in the 1966 World Series. But we beat those two guys (Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale), and these guys can't be as good as them."

Robinson said he is no longer bothered by the publicity given New York players, whereas he would have been five or six years ago.

"After you've been around awhile," he said, "you realize that being in New York a player gets the best of it. Some of them aren't as good as they're made out to be."

Baltimore's American League champions have been installed as the 8.5 favorite. But, Robinson discounts this, too.

"Being the favorite doesn't mean anything," he said. "You're the favorite because they look at what you did before. Rod Carew was the American League batting champion. How many hits did he get in the playoff? One?"

Carew, who hit .332 during the regular season, beat out an infield hit in his first at-bat in the playoffs and then went 0-for-14 as the Orioles swept three games.

Robinson, a .234 hitter during the season, rapped seven hits in 14 appearances in the playoffs and made his usual standout stops at third base.

"I think the World Series will create a lot more interest this year than in a long time because of the Mets," Robinson said.

Cleon Jones Is No Pop-Off

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—Cleon Jones doesn't pop off. Nor is he big on champagne. He took a couple of sips in the New York Mets' madhouse, (better make that word clubhouse) Monday, because he saw everyone else deliciously gulping the grape and it seemed like the thing to do. Give Cleon Jones a cold, frosty beer any time.

The point is made merely to establish the degree of his sobriety right after the Mets' become the new National League champions by polishing off the Atlanta Braves, 7-4, at noise-racked Shea Stadium. Cleon Jones was perfectly sober.

"We're the greatest team in America," he said quite calmly. "Nobody's gonna stop us. That goes for Baltimore or anybody. Just bear in mind what I say. Nobody's gonna stop us. Nobody."

Cleon No Pop-off
Cleon Jones is not a pop-off and he knows statements like he made can arouse the other side, but he feels the same way. Billy Hunter, the Baltimore coach, felt before the playoff with Minnesota.

Hunter, speaking for most of the Orioles, said they would take the Twins three straight and somebody with the Twins pinned Hunter's quotes on their clubhouse door when the team was in Baltimore. It didn't do the Twins any good. The Orioles still bowled them over three in a row. Hunter believed. So does Jones, and you'd be surprised how many others believe the same thing as he does.

Hank Aaron for one.

"I'm sure they can beat Baltimore," says Aaron, another fellow who doesn't go around making cheap talk. "Why? Because of their pitching. I know it wasn't good in this series, but I've been facing Seaver and Koosman the past few years and I know what they can do. They're rough. Believe me they are."

When a rival ballplayer agrees with another, it's usually a good idea to listen. Aaron is a rival of Jones. So is Bob Aspermonte, the Atlanta infielder. He's another one who agrees with Jones.

Amazing Describes Them
"I don't see how anyone can beat 'em the way they're playing now," he says. "Everything's going their way. What do they call 'em? Amazing? It's certainly the word that describes them beautifully."

The biggest stickout of all for the Mets was a guy who didn't even play. His name is Gil Hodges and he has been making the right call all year long. He made still another one when he called in Ryan from the bullpen with runners on second and third and none out and the Braves ahead, 2-0, in the third.

Ryan relieved Gentry with a count of 1-and-2 on Rico Carty, who hit only .342 for Atlanta this year. Hodges went for Ryan after Carty had ripped a vicious foul liner against the left field wall.

Carty struck out on the first pitch, whereupon Hodges ordered Orlando Cepeda purposely passed, filling the bases. Cleo Boyer was up next. Boyer doesn't hit much for average but he's always dangerous.

"Boyer usually gets the bat on the ball," Ryan says. "I knew I had to get him out, and I knew I couldn't let him hit a sacrifice fly. I had to strike him out."

Was Still in Woods
Ryan did. He still wasn't out of the woods because Bob Didier was stepping in and Ryan had never faced him before.

"I called Jerry Grote out and asked him how to pitch to him," Ryan says.

"You just watch my glove," Grote instructed.

Grote kept his glove in such a fashion that Ryan knew he had to get the ball in on the young Atlanta receiver. He did and Didier fouled off a couple of pitches.

Then Ryan made a mistake. He got his next pitch a little outside. Didier swung and lifted a fly ball to the opposite field and Cleon Jones wrapped it up near the line.

From that point on, it was like Jones said.

Nobody in the world could stop the mighty Mets.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Allen, in the Phillies doghouse for missing games and other antics, had announced he wouldn't play for the club again after this season.

Phillies owner Bob Carpenter and General Manager John Quinn said they'd be happy to trade the slugger if they could make "a good deal."

Allen, out nearly a month on suspension for missing a doubleheader in New York this summer, slammed 32 homers, drove in 89 runs and batted .288.

The Phillies also reportedly got pitcher Joe Hoerner and outfielder Byron Brown, and gave the Cards pitcher Jerry Johnson.

Going to the Cards with Allen, baseball sources said they learned, was infielder Cookie Rojas.

Philadelphia reportedly got center fielder Curt Flood, catcher Tim McCarver and three other players.

Both clubs scheduled a news conference at 11 a.m. to announce "a major trade."

Beyond that, spokesmen declined comment.

The Pride's Career Comes to Swift End

NEW YORK (AP) — The racing career of Nevele Pride, the world's fastest trotter at one mile with a 1:54.4-5 clocking, is believed over.

The New York connections of the Harness Horse of the Year for 1967 and 1968 were not available for comment Tuesday night on the report from Montreal that Nevele Pride had pulled up lame after a workout.

Mike MacCormac, director of racing at Blue Bonnets, said Nevele Pride had been withdrawn from a $25,000 trot at the Canadian track scheduled for Sunday, Oct. 19 because of the mishap.

"It came as a complete surprise to us," MacCormac said. "Stanley Dancer called me and said that the horse pulled up lame and, in the best interests of the horse, it was decided to retire him immediately."

It was expected that official announcement of the retirement will be made at a press conference Thursday.

Dancer, of New Egypt, N.J., is the driver and trainer of Nevele Pride owned by the Nevele Acres and Lou Resnick of Elmhurst, N.Y.

They had planned to campaign the colt for the remainder of the year with the hope of his becoming the first trotter to win a million dollars. The son of Star's Pride-Thankful, was scheduled to be retired for breeding purposes after the 1969 campaign.

Nevele Pride's current earnings are $871,738, second to the $885,171 hung up by Su Mac Lad before his retirement five years ago. Cardigan Bay, a pacer, be-

Giants Move Jim Trimble

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Giants named defensive line coach Jim Trimble to a new job in the front office Tuesday, but they left it a little vague as to just exactly what the job entailed.

The Giants said Trimble would "assume widespread new responsibilities under a coaching reorganization."

In the reorganization, Ken Kavanaugh, the club's offensive end coach, was placed in charge of overall offensive operations and former scout Joe Walton was named end coach in Kavanaugh's place. Former end Jim Katcavage was named defensive line coach to replace Trimble.

Owner Wellington Mara said that Trimble would take charge of professional personnel operations and would also work under Jim Lee Howell in the area of collegiate personnel evaluation.

The Giants didn't give Trimble's job a title, but Mara said, "in the Navy whenever you had a problem you went to the first lieutenant and so I guess that's what we can call Jim."

Trimble, who said, "I guess I can sweep up the place," said his main responsibility would be to determine the draft picks the Giants will make in the future. Mara will remain in charge of trades.

The Giants, who haven't had a winning season since 1963, have been severely criticized in recent years for their failures in their draft selections and their trades.

When Mara fired coach Allie Sherman before the start of the season, he said he planned to name a general manager to take some of the burden off him. Trimble will no assume these duties but he will not have the position of general manager.

Trimble has been a coach and a general manager in the pros for the last 18 years with Philadelphia of the NFL, and Hamilton and Montreal of the Canadian Football League. He joined the Giants in 1967.

IT'S ALL OVER! — Holy Cross head football coach Bill Whitton, (R), talks with members of his football team not confined with hepatitis to tell them that the college has called off the remainder of the season's games after 20 of the 75-man squad were hospitalized with hepatitis. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Hepatitis Ends HC Season

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP)—The Holy Cross football season came to an abrupt halt Monday when it was discovered that the entire 75-man squad had contracted infectious hepatitis.

For 22 seniors and a new head coach, Bill Whitton, the news was just a bit more difficult to swallow.

"I don't think anyone ever represented Holy Cross football better than you," Whitton told his squad in a final meeting that was not devoid of tears. "My opinion of you has always been high. I've never altered it."

The disease struck a majority of the team members over the weekend, and Sunday night 19 players were crammed into the school infirmary. The results of blood tests showed Monday the entire team had been infected, along with seven coaches, four managers, a trainer and the director of sports information. Athletic Director Vincent G. Dougherty contracted the remaining eight opponents on Holy Cross' 10-game schedule and informed them it would be impossible to fulfill the school's commitment.

Dr. John Shea, vice president for student affairs, said the college would isolate those affected to prevent the spread of the disease to the remainder of the 2,350-member student body.

Hepatitis attacks the liver, but rarely is fatal. It is prevalent chiefly among young people, and the only cure is rest, usually about six weeks.

Health officials have been conducting a general sanitation survey at the school in an effort to pinpoint the source of the disease.

In their two games this year, the Crusaders lost 13-0 to Harvard and 8-6 to Dartmouth. The remainder of the schedule included games against Colgate, Buffalo, Syracuse, Villanova, Massachusetts, Rutgers, Connecticut and Boston College.

Ohio State Still on Top

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ohio State is still the best of a dwindling list of major college powerhouses.

The powerful Buckeyes, defending national champions, received 33 first place votes and 346 points from the 35-member United Press International Board of Coaches today to rank as the nation's No. 1 college football team for the third consecutive week.

Ohio State heads a listing of only 16 colleges receiving votes from the coaches.

Mighty Texas moved into the No. 2 position and Southern California jumped to third with 264 and 228 points respectively.

Penn State, ranked second last week, slipped to fourth while Arkansas, the third ranked team a week ago, fell to fifth.

Missouri, fresh off an upset of Michigan, vaulted from ninth to sixth while Georgia maintained its No. 7 ranking. Oklahoma slipped to eighth, Purdue fell to ninth and UCLA held on to No. 10.

Tennessee was ranked 11th, followed by Florida, Louisiana State and Notre Dame, reappearing in the balloting after a week's absence.

Alabama captured the No. 15 ranking with Wyoming the No. 16 and final team listed as voting was bunched among a select group.

Ohio State boosted its record to 2-0 with a 41-14 romp past Washington while Texas blasted Navy 56-17 for its third victory without a defeat. Southern California, which captured the only two first place votes not awarded to Ohio State, advanced to a 3-0 mark by defeating Oregon State 31-7 while Penn State, now 3-0, edged Kansas State, 19th last week, 17-14. Goldleaf on Move In National Events

By MORT LAFFIN

KINGSTON
Ron Goldleaf, a familiar figure to area auto racing enthusiasts, is literally a man on the move. Ron, who has been touring the country and competing in some of the biggest track and road races that are staged in the United States, recently took part in the Can-Am event at Bridgehampton, Conn. and finished thirteenth in a field of 28.

The winner of the event was Dennis Hulme, of the Hulme-McLaren team. Hulme was driving a M8B McLaren-built racer with a 680 horsepower, 480 cubic inch Chevrolet engine. Bruce McLaren, who builds the racers for his team, finished second in a similar car.

All this may not mean too much to the average reader, but, when you compare those McLaren-Hulme statistics with the ones listed for Ron's car, a 1967 Lola T-70, then you can see why finishing in the thirteenth position was quite a feat for the young man and his team.

Goldleaf's car, built by Eric Broadley and owned by Tom Marone of Denver, Colorado, was powered by a stock Corvette engine at 370 horsepower and 327 cubic inches. What that means is there are some young car owners in the Kingston area with bigger engines under their hoods, running up and down Broadway.

Faced Andretti

Then, you must also take into consideration the fact that drivers like Mario Andretti, this year's winner of the Indianapolis 500 were also in the competition, and that most of the drivers had cars with much more powerful engines than Goldleaf's Lola and you begin to see that thirteenth position wasn't bad at all, in fact, it was pretty darn good.

"There was polite applause when we finished," said Goldleaf. "But, when they announced our state, particularly the ones concerning our engine, the crowd went wild and gave us a very gratifying standing ovation," he said.

Ron has been in the business for six years, traveling from race to race, driving some pretty fast machines, but this was the first Can-Am ever for the young Kingston native.

Car Handled Well

"The car handled real well, considering we were running in a Group Seven Sports Car Class with unlimited horsepower and weight. We stayed right up even with leaders on the driving part of the course, the turns and cornering, but when it came to the straight-aways, the bigger cars would just open up and out-run us. It came as no surprise to us that this happened," he said.

Ron pointed out that the car itself is a good one and can place even higher in the national and international events, but would need a bigger, more powerful engine.

"One engine that we may have a chance of getting for the next race is a ZL-1 with 427 cubes and a stock horsepower output of 550. Then, with a few modifications, we would really be a contender," he concluded.

Goldleaf is well-known in racing circles for his ability to drive the course, getting the most out of his car's good points. He is also in great physical condition and is noted for his endurance.

These qualifications are a must if one is to be successful as a driver.

Of course, the ultimate for Ron would be to be picked by one of the great racing syndicates like the Chevy and Ford teams or an Andy Granatelli-type operation.

Ron attended Kingston and Florida schools and also was a student at Ulster County Community College. A familyman, Ron's wife, Danica, runs a motel on 9W.

Zel Beaty Signs With LA Stars

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Just when the war between the two professional basketball leagues seemed to be ebbing to a kind of uneasy truce, the Los Angeles Stars staged a lightning guerrilla raid and came away with a prize National Basketball Association center.

The stars of the rival American Basketball Association announced Tuesday the signing of Atlanta Hawks' All-Star Zelmo Beaty to a four-year contract, beginning in the 1970-71 season.

The 6-foot-8, 235-pound Beaty became the third NBA player in recent months to jump, with a fourth, Luke Jackson of Philadelphia, hung up between the leagues because of signed contracts with the 76ers and the ABA's Carolina Cougars.

The Stars were clearly happy with the successful raid, which they hope will make they a better local drawing card in the future. Los Angeles currently fights for attendance with the Lakers of the NBA, who are stocked with stars like Jerry West, Elgin Baylor and Wilt Chamberlain.

Beaty will sit out the one-year option remaining on his contract with the Hawks, after refusing to sign a new pact with Atlanta when it came up for renewal last week.

CHICAGO (UPI)—Luke Appling, two-time American League batting champion and a member of baseball's Hall of Fame who played for the Chicago White Sox for 20 years, Tuesday was named one of the White Sox coaches for the 1970 season. Appling had a career batting average of .310 before retiring in 1950.

Carmel Scores Over Raiders

RED HOOK
Visiting Carmel took full measure of the Red Hook High School eleven, winning a non-league contest, 20-0. The game was a tough one for the winless Raiders as it cost them the services of star halfback Greg Fister.

Tim Buckner scored two TDs for the winner, while Bill Lewis added one and a two-point conversion. Buckner bucked in from six yards out in the second period and Lewis added the PATs on a pass reception. Buckner burst up the middle for three yards and his second score of the day in the third with the PAT failing.

Lewis then added another score for the winners in the fourth period as he scampered around right end for the tally.

Negro's Bid Falls Short In Atlanta Mayoral Race

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A liberal Democrat and a moderate Republican will vie in a runoff election for mayor of Atlanta Oct. 21 as the bid of the first Negro in modern times to seek the office fell short.

However, a Negro attorney, Maynard Jackson, won the post of vice mayor now held by the leading mayoralty candidate, Sam Massell.

Massell, 42, rode a surge of Negro votes to the top of the seven-man ticket ahead of Alderman Rodney Cook, 45, the only Republican in the nonpartisan election.

Massell picked up many Negro votes counted on by Dr. Horace Tate, the lone Negro in the race, who finished third.

Conservative Alderman G. Everett Millican, 72, who ran second before the dominantly Negro precincts began to come in, finished fourth. Millican had run on a law-and-order platform.

Jackson, who ran against U.S. Sen. Herman Talmadge last year, was the first Negro to seek the vice mayor's post. He was pulling steadily ahead of Alderman Millican.

With all 149 precincts reporting, Massell had 29,971 votes to 25,830 for Cook, Tate had 22,193 and Millican 17,481.

Jackson led Farris 50,619 to 34,315.

Three other candidates in the mayor's race picked up a few hundred votes among them.

Tate, 46, head of a statewide organization of Negro teachers and a member of the Atlanta school board, apparently was the victim of a split in the Negro vote. Also, voters turned out in fewer numbers than had been expected.

Predictions had run as high as 150,000 votes but the total appeared to be around 100,000. Atlanta has about 200,000 registered voters, 40 per cent of them Negroes.

Tate has received the endorsement of the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference; Coretta Scott King, widow of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.; and some other prominent civil rights leaders.

However, a group of black leaders including state Sen. LeRoy Johnson supported Massell.

Used Cars for Sale

Introducing A Used Car Guarantee . . .
It Doesn't Come With Every Car

It's a 100% guarantee. Not one of those "we pay-half-you-pay-half" deals.

And it comes only with used cars that pass the Volkswagen 16 point Safety and Performance test.

This is how it works. When we get a car as a trade in, we give it the inspection. Check it out completely. If it passes, we tune up, tighten, repair or replace everything that needs tuning up, tightening, repairing or replacing.

Then we guarantee it 100% repair or replacement of all major mechanical parts* for 30 days or 1,000 miles.

What kind of cars get our guarantees? All kinds. Chevys, Fords, Ramblers, VWs. (We get all kinds of trade-ins for new Volkswagens).

So, the next time somebody tries to sell you a used car that's "just like new," ask about the guarantee. Then remember us.

No, our used cars aren't "just like new." No used car can be. But no used cars could be in better shape, either.

Then we guarantee it 100% repair or replacement of all major mechanical parts* for 30 days or 1,000 miles.

Dear Abby

Only a Gin Partner!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

(© 1969 by Chicago Tribune, N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)
DEAR ABBY: I recently met a very charming 73-year-old widower in Florida. (I am a 70-year-old widow.) It was a whirlwind romance and we married shortly after. Herbert is very well-to-do, but that is not the reason I married him.
The problem is that Herbert gave me no hint at all that he had surgery six years ago, and all he could offer me was "a lovely home and a gin rummy partner."

Please don't get the idea that I think "sex" is everything in marriage, but I am a very youthful 70, and I was looking forward to a little more than a lovely home and a gin rummy partner.

I don't want to disgrace my children and grandchildren with a divorce. Herbert laughingly said, "If you got yourself a boyfriend, I wouldn't divorce you as long as I didn't find out about it." What should I do?

MISLED
DEAR MISLED: Most women of 70 who marry a man of 73 could be content with a lovely home and a gin rummy partner, but if you are not, don't worry about "disgracing" anyone. See a lawyer about an annulment. You have legitimate grounds.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing this for my self and a lot of my girl friends.

There is a woman in town who is married and has small children. Her husband works nights, and while he is working this lady runs around with slice of raw onion with me to the breakfast table and make them inhale it with their breakfast. I would carry a slice of onion into every room of their house, and also into their car. And upon leaving I'd "hide" slices of raw onion all over their house. Then they would know what it's like to try to eliminate an offensive odor which has permeated everything. What do you think?

LOVES FRESH AIR
DEAR LOVES: I think they deserve it. But I'm betting against your ability to be that rude.

HOPING
DEAR HOPING: Assuming your parents are right, it will take more than a "hint" from me, and repeated turn-downs from a long list of suitors to make this lady stay home, if she's inclined to run around.

DEAR ABBY: I am getting ready for a visit from my brother and his wife, and much as I love them both, I am dreading their visit. Why? Because they both smoke like every puff was their last.

After their last visit, I had to take EVERYTHING out of the bedroom they occupied and air it two days running. Even the draperies, mattress and pillows! A strong odor of stale cigarettes still persisted, so I searched and searched and finally found an ashtray full of cigarette butts in a DESK DRAWER!

I have come up with an idea: The next time we go to visit THEM I will take along several strong onions and I'd carry a

Here to '70's Magnificent

NEW YORK (AP) — "From Here to the Seventies" Tuesday night was a massive, one-shot effort by NBC News to provide an overview of the direction and quality of life during the past 10 years and a preview—often a bit frightening—of the next decade.

It was a bold, almost presumptuous project, attempting to cram the significant events and trends of 1960-70 into 2½ hours. Most of the subject matter was familiar. But it never seemed warmed-over although individuals might argue over the handling of some events. It seemed to hustle through the Vietnam conflict while it lingered on and kept returning to youth in revolt.

It covered everything from the Pill and pollution to the Beatles and the Berlin Wall. It found time to examine pornography and the nudity vogue, and minutes later flashed a solemn roll call of major public figures who died during the period.

The theme was biblical—"There is an appointed time for everything"—and in keeping with these country-music times, there was often in the background, the sound of a group singing a ballad. "Everything turn, turn, turn. There is a season, turn, turn, turn."

NBC commentators popped up in each segment with carefully prepared pieces that helped pull the wildly assorted subjects into some sort of focus. Ed Newman spoke of the new permissiveness on stage and in literature while standing on Broadway; Aline Saarinen talked of proteinets; starred millions from a market place in Colombia; Jack Perkins philosophized about youth while standing in a pasture amid the debris left behind the Woodstock rock music festival.

Paul Newman, presiding, narrated with professional skill and clarity.

Toward the end, David Brinkley had some thoughts about television's role.

"What television did in the sixties was to show the American people to the American people," he said. "It... showed a society that was in many ways looking better than any other but in other ways was not working at all. It showed a need for change and it showed the changes not being made."

One wished the program could have been shorter, that its editor had used a lighter hand with the tricks and tricky photography—interesting for those with color sets but disturbing and interruptive for those with black and white—and that the commentators had not sounded so piously preachy.

But it was altogether a magnificent job that accomplished something important in summarizing the period. More than that, it gave the viewer a look at the forest of the 1960s at a time when most of us are too close to see more than a few familiar trees.

Montreal Nightmare — Police Restoring Order

MONTREAL (UPI)—City police ended a strike early today and set about restoring order out of the nightmare of gun battles, violence and looting that erupted during the 16 hours Canada's largest city was virtually without law.

Reports said several persons had been killed but only one death was confirmed, that of provincial police Cpl. Robert Dumas, 20. Hospitals said 26 persons were injured, six with serious gunshot wounds. Scores were arrested.

Gasoline bombings and vandalism by marauding gangs of hoodlums left a wake of destruction through the center of Montreal.

The strike by the city's 3,700 policemen, later joined by a majority of the city's 2,400 firemen, ended at 12:30 a.m. when police union leaders bowed to emergency legislation passed unanimously at a hastily convened session of the provincial assembly in Quebec City.

As the first police sirens wailed through city streets in the early hours of the day, truckloads of army troops in full combat gear rolled into the city.

The troops, an advance unit of 150 men drawn from a 600-man battalion of the Royal 22nd Regiment at Valcartier, Que., was flown to Montreal in response to an appeal from Quebec Attorney General Remi Paul.

The police walkout at 8:30 a.m. followed contract settlement terms handed down by an arbitration board after a year of negotiations. The board's ruling would have put Montreal policemen almost $1,000 behind the annual wages paid policemen in Toronto, the country's second-largest city.

As one after another of the city's 35 substations closed down for lack of personnel, provincial police were ordered into key downtown areas to help handle emergency calls. Generally unfamiliar with city districts, the provincial force men had difficulty coping.

Taking advantage of the lack of police, city taxi drivers converged on the Murrayhill Limousine Co. which has drawn enmity from city cabbies because of its exclusive franchise on lucrative passenger traffic to Montreal International Airport.

The Murrayhill premises developed into the worst battleground of the night and touched off the vandalism and looting in the business district.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT—This young man was caught in the act (on film) reaching for a pair of shoes for his girlfriend following a looting spree as windows on Ste Catherine Street in Montreal were smashed. Few police of any kind were on hand to prevent looting following their wildcat walkout Tuesday. A token force Provincial Police were unable to bring law and order and army troops are expected to take over shortly. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

SAIGON (UPI)—Scattered fighting within 75 miles of Saigon left 47 guerrilla soldiers dead against light Allied losses in the only combat reported by military spokesmen today.

It was one of the lightest days of fighting since the current lull began nearly three weeks ago. Fourteen towns and military camps came under shelling attack overnight but losses were described as light.

Meanwhile, the Navy, in another move to "Vietnamize" the war, said it is turning over 80 more river patrol boats worth a total of $7.3 million to the South Vietnamese.

Prime Minister Tran Thien Khieu of South Vietnam joined other top U.S. and government commanders today in predicting a new wave of Viet Cong and North Vietnamese attacks, mostly small-scale terror actions.

"I think they will try to stop our efforts in bringing security to the countryside rather than launching more big offensives such as we used to see," he told newsmen.

The six elementary schools on the West Side were ordered closed today but all secondary schools remained open.

Mayor Oran Gragson and the city commissioners were to meet at 3 p.m. today with 25 members of the black community at Doolittle Park on the West Side.

A meeting Tuesday night organized by Assemblyman Woodrow Wilson, R-Las Vegas, the only Negro ever elected to the Nevada Legislature, produced complaints of a lack of job opportunities and recreation, and police harassment on the West Side.

The two victims of the shootings were Albert Jim Hayes, 32, a Negro, of Las Vegas, the looting suspect; and Carl Arthur Benson, 71, a white man from Henderson, Nev., the door-to-door salesman.

The arrests Tuesday night brought to nearly 200 the number of persons seized since the initial disturbance was triggered Sunday when two Negro policemen attempted to arrest a black cab driver for speeding.

The Nevada National Guard, put on alert for the second time Tuesday by Gov. Paul Laxalt, was released early today. The guardsmen were never deployed. Laxalt flew to the strife-torn city Tuesday but did not make a statement.

The Nevada National Guard, put on alert for the second time Tuesday by Gov. Paul Laxalt, was released early today. The guardsmen were never deployed. Laxalt flew to the strife-torn city Tuesday but did not make a statement.

The Israeli Planes Return

By United Press International

Israeli warplanes braved heavy ground fire for the second successive day today to attack what was described as a "terrorist base" in Jordan, four minutes flying time from the capital at Amman.

Jordan said two civilians were killed and three wounded. The jets went into action just after dawn, following up scattered overnight skirmishes along the Israel-Jordan frontier.

Israel said one of the skirmishes saw an Israeli army patrol kill five Arab saboteurs Tuesday night near the Abdullah Bridge in the Jordan Valley. No Israeli losses were reported.

Arab guerrillas reported overnight raids into Israeli-occupied territory from Jordan in which Israeli civilian and military camps at Yevnael, Al Bakeia, Keshar and Um Saboun were destroyed.

The aerial raiders today went after what Tel Aviv said were "terrorist bases" 22 miles into Jordan near Irbid. No other details were given.

The raids were reported in Amman as firing stopped along a portion of the Suez Canal front to let Egyptian and Israeli soldiers exchange civilian prisoners at Kantara.

Jordanian military spokesmen said two civilians were killed and three wounded in the Israeli rocket and machine gun strafing runs this morning against the El Shallah area, 43 miles north of Amman.

Again, heavy anti-aircraft fire met the raiders but there were no reports any of the Israeli warplanes were shot down.

Today's raid followed a similar strike Tuesday described as one of the heaviest Israeli aerial attacks into Jordan since the 1967 Middle East War. Jordan said five civilians were wounded.

The exchange by ferry at Kantara saw 100 residents of the Israeli-occupied Gaza Strip bound over to the Egyptians in exchange for 150 Palestinians leaving Egypt to go to the strip.

Israel said it also was turning over to Egypt the bodies of five Cairo commandos killed during a cross-canal raid last week. Three other Egyptians were captured in that raid.

Developments in Cairo pointed to more guerrilla-style raids into Israeli-held territory as Arab government sources disclosed the planned formation of a regiment of volunteers for such raids.

The sources said a conference of Arab ministers of youth affairs agreed on the proposal at a conference. It was not clear whether the regiment would join Arab guerrilla groups or operate separately.

Efforts to solve the Arab-Israeli conflict appeared at a standstill, with diplomats at the United Nations saying it would be "months" before the big four come up with a settlement proposal.

Twenty-two of the Communist troops died in the only ground attack reported from Tuesday, an assault that inflicted light losses on a South Vietnamese battalion near Cai Be, 50 miles southwest of Saigon.

In the other actions, U.S. helicopter gunships and river patrol boats killed a total of 25 Viet Cong, most of them near the Cambodian border north of Saigon, U.S. headquarters said.

Two waves of B52 bombers followed up the border-area clashes with raids against what were described as Communist base camps, weapons positions and bunkers 81 miles north and 51 miles northwest of Saigon.

A belated report from government spokesmen said a terrorist shot to death a Saigon policeman and his son Sunday night near Saigon's Tan Son Nhut Airport. The assassin escaped.

Nearly 600 more American troops left the war zone Tuesday under the second phase of President Nixon's cutback plan. They included the Army's 295th Ammunition Company, bound for Forbes AFB, Kan., and the 107th Signal Company, bound for Boston.

SAIGON (UPI)—Scattered fighting within 75 miles of Saigon left 47 guerrilla soldiers dead against light Allied losses in the only combat reported by military spokesmen today.

It was one of the lightest days of fighting since the current lull began nearly three weeks ago. Fourteen towns and military camps came under shelling attack overnight but losses were described as light.

Meanwhile, the Navy, in another move to "Vietnamize" the war, said it is turning over 80 more river patrol boats worth a total of $7.3 million to the South Vietnamese.

Prime Minister Tran Thien Khieu of South Vietnam joined other top U.S. and government commanders today in predicting a new wave of Viet Cong and North Vietnamese attacks, mostly small-scale terror actions.

"I think they will try to stop our efforts in bringing security to the countryside rather than launching more big offensives such as we used to see," he told newsmen.

The six elementary schools on the West Side were ordered closed today but all secondary schools remained open.

Mayor Oran Gragson and the city commissioners were to meet at 3 p.m. today with 25 members of the black community at Doolittle Park on the West Side.

A meeting Tuesday night organized by Assemblyman Woodrow Wilson, R-Las Vegas, the only Negro ever elected to the Nevada Legislature, produced complaints of a lack of job opportunities and recreation, and police harassment on the West Side.

The two victims of the shootings were Albert Jim Hayes, 32, a Negro, of Las Vegas, the looting suspect; and Carl Arthur Benson, 71, a white man from Henderson, Nev., the door-to-door salesman.
